By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, April 26.—Reports from Stockholm that large forces of British pursuit planes and crack units of the French Foreign Legion have gone into action in Norway cheered England today along with news of German setbacks at Steinkjer and Roeros.

The air ministry confirmed that British fighter aircraft are now engaged in operations in Norway.

At the same time, it was announced that Royal Air Force planes had attacked oil tanks in Oslofjord as well as a large German transport there. The German seaplane base and four large ships near Stavanger also were bombed.

Offensive Halted

Word that the Nazis had cleared out of Roeros after a brief occupation and had at least temporarily halted offensive activities north of Steinkjer reached well-informed military circles coincident with first official confirmation that Britain is now meeting the German air wave over Norway.

"From today it will be found," a spokesman declared, "that German

French Foreign Legion Troops Land In Norway To Join Allied Forces

By BARBRO ALVING
International News Service Special Correspondent

ON THE SWEDISH-NORWEGIAN BORDER, April 26.—Germany's offensive forces on the front north of Trondheim today widened their circular movements to embrace the English and French lines, but they met two powerful new opponents.

One was the most famous and effective attack troops of the French Foreign Legion, which under cover of darkness advanced from the bombed landing quay at Namsos.

The other was units of the British air force, stationed at huge floating airports and large aircraft carriers somewhere in the Norwegian fjords.

Floating Airports

The floating airports and aircraft carriers are believed to have increased considerably the possibility that the allies may assume control of the air in Norway.

This news has been confirmed in two ways. First, yesterday morning from the bomb-proof cellar of the only remaining large house at Namsos I saw four planes in the air—

Bullet Fired Through Window Kills Girl In Philadelphia Home

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—As the initial step in an intensive search for the cold-blooded murderer of Edith Snyder, attractive 16-year-old school girl, police of suburban Abington today were rounding up all her friends and classmates for questioning.

The victim, described as a pleasant, companionable girl who never went out on dates until six months ago, was shot to death last night as she studied her lessons in the front room of her Abington township home.

With a single cry as the bullet fired through a closed window, tore through her lung and heart, she leaped from the chair, staggered four steps and died in the arms of her brother, Edwin, 17.

Saw Man Flee

Startled by the shot, the girl's four step-brothers and sisters, who had been playing in an upstairs room, ran to a window. They saw the murderer—a man more than medium in heighth—dash down the walk and speed away in a dark-colored sedan.

Upon learning early today that the girl, who was an excellent student and hockey player, had been friendly with a young man living in Philadelphia, Montgomery county detectives announced they would move immediately to question him. Meanwhile, however, they refused to reveal his identity.

Notes Are Found

In the hangbag of the slain girl, police found several notes such as might pass between a boy and a girl in a classroom. One was signed, "Lovingly, Bill," but police declined to disclose its contents.

Investigators, it was understood, were working on the theory the mysterious assassin might have been a youth in the throes of puppy love. Tending to support that hypothesis was the indication that the murderer knew the neighborhood well.

In an effort to uncover a possible motive, authorities were rounding up for questioning all the youthful intimates of the dead girl.

Edith was the step-daughter of E. J. Smith, a traveling salesman in well-to-do circumstances. Her father died some years ago. Her mother, Estelle, 45, was ironing in the kitchen, when the fatal shot was fired.

Violence Occurs In Akron, Ohio, As Result Of Strike

(International News Service)

AKRON, O., April 26.—First violence of the 17-day General Tire & Rubber Co. strike flared today when two company workmen were cut by glass when a rock was thrown thru the window of their automobile. Three other men in the car escaped injury.

James B. Allen and Charles L. Finn were treated for lacerations at the company's clinic.

Meanwhile, efforts to settle the strike were at a standstill. Union spokesmen contend the strike was called because the company "refused to settle accumulated grievances in violation of a union-company contract".

New Rolling Mill Put In Operation At Elliott Plant

Formal Dedication Of New Mill At Steel Plant Thursday Night

ADDITION BUILT TO LOCAL PLANT

Production At Elliott Bros. Steel Plant Will Be Largely Increased

With ceremonies fitting to the occasion, the new four high reversible rolling mill of Elliott Brothers Steel Company on Taylor street, was dedicated Thursday night, April 25. Management, employes, and friends joined in the festivities which included a dinner, a dance, a few speeches and a lot of fireworks. The entire program except the fireworks was carried out in the new building which houses the new rolling mill.

At 7 o'clock the plant whistle was blown and a number of aerial bombs set off. The crowd then entered the building where the ribbon was cut, a Divine blessing asked upon the mill and the guests sat down to a full spaghetti dinner. Beginning with an antipasto it went on through roast chicken to dessert. The dinner was an achievement in the culinary art and was the work of Mrs. John Peluso, wife of the chairman of the evening.

Short Speeches

From the platform which had been erected, Andy Sugent, an employe of the mill directed the entertainment program and following the dinner introduced a few gentlemen who spoke briefly. The speakers included Rev. J. A. Doerr, Elmer Elliott, Reuben Elliott, Raymond Peluso, John Peluso and Bart Richards. Elmer and Reuben Elliott are sons of the founder of the business, the late Noah Elliott and in their remarks both paid tribute to the co-operation of the men working in the plant with them.

A special entertainment feature was the work of the Mack Sisters, three lassies from West Pittsburg who play and sing. An orchestra livened things up during the dinner and played for the dance which was held inside the mill building. Following the dinner and program, another display of fireworks was set off.

Output Increases

The occasion was one that deserved everything that was done. The addition of the new rolling mill steps up the output of the mill, means more men, and adds another chapter to the unusual history of the company. Founded by the late Noah Elliott, considered one of the best cold rolled steel men in the world, the plant operated for years under the name of Elliott-Blair Steel Company.

In the early twenties the partnership was dissolved and later the plant closed down. In 1932 the two sons of Mr. Elliott decided to reopen the business and gathering together a little capital they got it started. In the eight years time they have accomplished an industrial miracle. All previous indebtedness was paid off, new equipment was purchased and installed and orders began to mount.

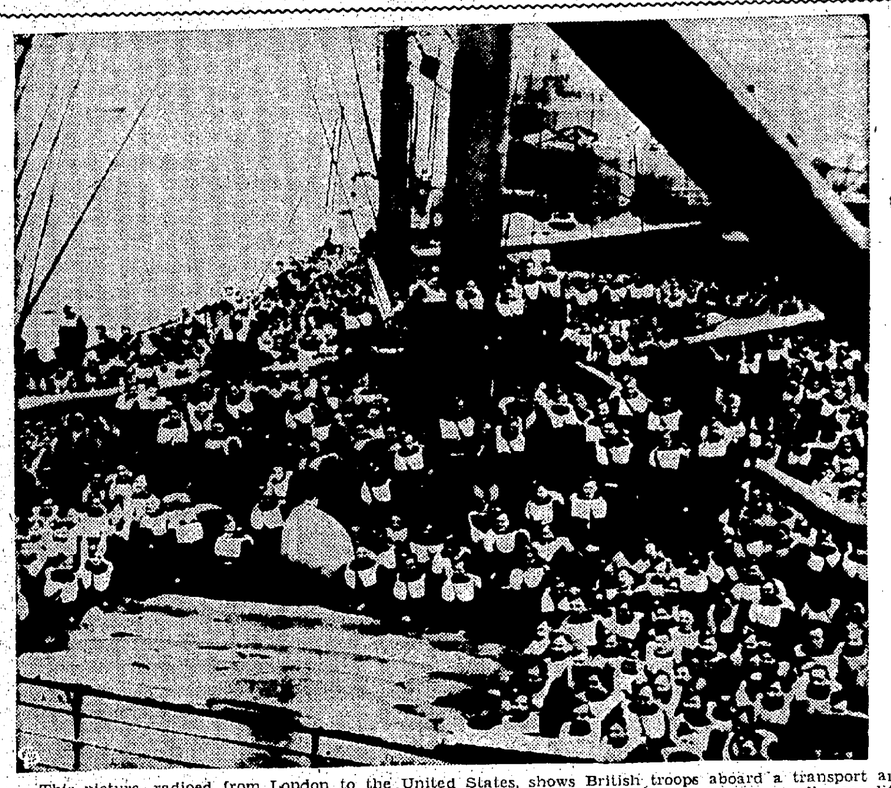

Today Elliott Brothers steel goes into a hundred different articles you use in every day life. Razor blades, pen knives, buttons, the list is a long and varied one. Any need for high grade, finely tempered, cold rolled steel can be filled by the plant.

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—Mrs. Anna C. Murphy of New Castle today prepared once again to present her suit for damages against E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Company, Inc., for alleged damage to her property in New Castle by poisonous fumes and gas from a company plant.

Mrs. Murphy recently won a $6,000 award against the company, but Federal Judge R. M. Mrs. Murphy contended the fumes were injurious to the health of persons on the property and that fumes killed vegetation and flowers on her four-acre tract.

Famous French Foreign Legion Fighting In Norway With German Members

(International News Service)

STOCKHOLM, April 26. — Germans may be fighting Germans in the snows of Norway today.

French Foreign Legion troops, crack soldiers from the wastes of Africa, have arrived on the Norwegian front. It is extremely likely that some of Adolf Hitler's goose-stepping troops may soon meet some of their relatives from the fatherland, face-to-face and muzzle to muzzle.

Reports that all Germans in the legion had been segregated and shipped off to Syria were discounted in view of the tradition that the legion is a no-man's-land 'n itself —that once a man enlists he no longer is a Frenchman, German, Englishman or American—but just another member of one of the toughest fighting units in the world.

One of the latest recruits to the legion is Norman Kerry, silent film idol, who had been a legionnaire once before—in the movies.

Motorists Warned By Police Head On Passing Workmen

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 26.—Colonel Lynn G. Adams, of the state motor police, warned motorists today to drive with caution when traveling past "men at work" signs posted along the highway.

He declared that the departments would enforce the rule in the vehicle code which states:

"The driver of a vehicle, shall not overtake or pass, or attempt to pass, any other vehicle, proceeding in the same direction, between any points indicated by the placing of temporary warning or caution signals indicating that men are working on the highway."

Colonel Adams points out that this law will be rigidly enforced in a drive to reduce accidents.

British And French Prepare For Long War

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The British and French are preparing for a long war—of from three to six years duration.

They expect, in the end, to bring Nazi Germany to its knees by the power of their economic weapons, although long before that an Armageddon bloodier than any that marked the World War will redden the soil of the Franco-German frontier.

Britain expects some serious reverses in Norway and is preparing for a campaign there that will last, at the very least, through the summer.

These prospects and conclusions were set forth for the International News Service today by a competent allied military spokesman, who did not wish to be named or quoted. His views can be summarized thus:

The German high command invaded Norway with two purposes. First, to establish control over the route through which Swedish iron ore, a prime sinew of war, reaches the Reich. Second, to draw the Allies out on a new front and thus weaken their defenses at home.

However, creation of the new theatre of war is not distasteful to London and Paris. As a result of it, Germany already has lost one-third of its navy. More important, it is using up precious supplies of munitions and petroleum at a rapid rate —a development that accords thoroughly with Allied economic strategy.

Sharp Engagements Occur In Dombaas Area Preceding British Withdrawal

(International News Service)

New setbacks beset the British troops in Norway today as their French allies rushed to their aid.

The war office in London announced the third retreat of the northwestern expeditionary force, disclosing that "strong enemy forces" had driven the British back near Dombaas. Previous withdrawals had occurred at Stinkjer and Lillehammer.

Air Force Base Established

Simultaneously came the disclosure that the Royal Air Force had established a base on the icy surface of a Norwegian lake. Shortly afterward the war office announced a British air victory when a Bristol-Blenheim war plane routed two German flying boats in the North Sea.

Dombaas was a strategic town for the British. Lying in the Gubrands Valley, it served as a British base for operations against the railway line which swerves southeast across Norway to the Swedish frontier. Dombaas is a third of the distance from Romsdal to Hamar which is squarely on the railway.

French Foreign Legion To Aid

This defeat jaded the enthusiasm of the British at home who were encouraged only a few hours before by first official announcements that the French Foreign Legion had come to the aid of the British troops.

The French had repeatedly stressed the invincibility of these crack soldiers from the sands of the Sahara when asked if the severe cold of Norway in contrast to the heat of the desert would not hamper their operations through illness.

He said such an invasion might take place "today, tomorrow or the day after". Otherwise, he said, France will accept German contentions that the German vessels actually are bound for Norway.

Reports to Paris told of heavy fighting north of Narvik and northeast of Lillehammer.

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—Mrs. Anna C. Murphy of New Castle today prepared once again to present her suit for damages against E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Company, Inc., for alleged damage to her property in New Castle by poisonous fumes and gas from a company plant.

Mrs. Murphy recently won a $6,000 award against the company, but Federal Judge R. M. Gibson held that the jury verdict was against the weight of the evidence insofar as damage was concerned and granted a new trial to the defendants. Mrs. Murphy contended the fumes were injurious to the health of persons on the property and that fumes killed vegetation and flowers on her four-acre tract.

Famous French Foreign Legion Fighting In Norway With German Members

(International News Service)

STOCKHOLM, April 26. — Germans may be fighting Germans in the snows of Norway today.

French Foreign Legion troops, crack soldiers from the wastes of Africa, have arrived on the Norwegian front. It is extremely likely that some of Adolf Hitler's goose-stepping troops may soon meet some of their relatives from the fatherland, face-to-face and muzzle to muzzle.

Reports that all Germans in the legion had been segregated and shipped off to Syria were discounted in view of the tradition that the legion is a no-man's-land 'n itself —that once a man enlists he no longer is a Frenchman, German, Englishman or American—but just another member of one of the toughest fighting units in the world.

One of the latest recruits to the legion is Norman Kerry, silent film idol, who had been a legionnaire once before—in the movies.

Germany Expresses Regret At Killing Of U. S. Citizen

(International News Service)

GERMANY, April 26.—Germany has officially expressed regret to the United States because of the death of Robert M. Losey, U. S. air attache in Norway during a German bombing raid, the war department announced today.

Lieut. Gen. Friedrich von Boetticher, German military and air attache here, called on Maj. Gen Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. air corps, to extend the expression of regret on behalf of Field Marshal Herman Goering, German air minister. Arnold thanked the German officer for his message and promised to convey it to Secretary of War Woodring and Captain Losey's widow.

Losey was killed near Dombaas, Norway, last Sunday, during a German air raid.

Motorists Warned By Police Head On Passing Workmen

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 26.—Colonel Lynn G. Adams, of the state motor police, warned motorists today to drive with caution when traveling past "men at work" signs posted along the highway.

He declared that the departments would enforce the rule in the vehicle code which states:

"The driver of a vehicle, shall not overtake or pass, or attempt to pass, any other vehicle, proceeding in the same direction, between any points indicated by the placing of temporary warning or caution signals indicating that men are working on the highway."

Colonel Adams points out that this law will be rigidly enforced in a drive to reduce accidents.

British And French Prepare For Long War

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The British and French are preparing for a long war—of from three to six years duration.

They expect, in the end, to bring Nazi Germany to its knees by the power of their economic weapons, although long before that an Armageddon bloodier than any that marked the World War will redden the soil of the Franco-German frontier.

Britain expects some serious reverses in Norway and is preparing for a campaign there that will last, at the very least, through the summer.

These prospects and conclusions were set forth for the International News Service today by a competent allied military spokesman, who did not wish to be named or quoted. His views can be summarized thus:

The German high command invaded Norway with two purposes. First, to establish control over the route through which Swedish iron ore, a prime sinew of war, reaches the Reich. Second, to draw the Allies out on a new front and thus weaken their defenses at home.

However, creation of the new theatre of war is not distasteful to London and Paris. As a result of it, Germany already has lost one-third of its navy. More important, it is using up precious supplies of munitions and petroleum at a rapid rate —a development that accords thoroughly with Allied economic strategy.

New Withdrawal Made By British Troops In Norway

British Royal Air Force Has Established Base On Norwegian Lake

STOCKHOLM HEARS NAZIS QUIT ROEROS

Sharp Engagements Occur In Dombaas Area Preceding British Withdrawal

(International News Service)

New setbacks beset the British troops in Norway today as their French allies rushed to their aid.

The war office in London announced the third retreat of the northwestern expeditionary force, disclosing that "strong enemy forces" had driven the British back near Dombaas. Previous withdrawals had occurred at Stinkjer and Lillehammer.

Air Force Base Established

Simultaneously came the disclosure that the Royal Air Force had established a base on the icy surface of a Norwegian lake. Shortly afterward the war office announced a British air victory when a Bristol-Blenheim war plane routed two German flying boats in the North Sea.

Dombaas was a strategic town for the British. Lying in the Gubrands Valley, it served as a British base for operations against the railway line which swerves southeast across Norway to the Swedish frontier. Dombaas is a third of the distance from Romsdal to Hamar which is squarely on the railway.

French Foreign Legion To Aid

This defeat jaded the enthusiasm of the British at home who were encouraged only a few hours before by first official announcements that the French Foreign Legion had come to the aid of the British troops.

The French had repeatedly stressed the invincibility of these crack soldiers from the sands of the Sahara when asked if the severe cold of Norway in contrast to the heat of the desert would not hamper their operations through illness.

Allied Troops Are Pouring Into Norway

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 26.—Allied troops are continuing to pour into Norway, a French war ministry spokesman said today, reiterating the French contention that an invasion of Sweden appears "imminent" in view of German troop transports en route from Reich Baltic ports.

He said such an invasion might take place "today, tomorrow or the day after". Otherwise, he said, France will accept German contentions that the German vessels actually are bound for Norway.

Reports to Paris told of heavy fighting north of Narvik and northeast of Lillehammer.

New Deal Leaders Seek To Stem A Bipartisan House Rebellion

REPUBLICANS ALSO DIVIDED ON MOVE

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 26—New Deal leaders sought today to stem a bipartisan house rebellion and avert probably drastic revision of the wage-hour act over objection by President Roosevelt.

Democratic ranks were split wide open as the house plunged into debate on three measures modifying the wage-hour law. Veteran southern and rural Democrats led the rebellion against the new lead statute.

The house, which last week passed the Logan-Walter act to curb powers of new deal bureaus, and overrode a veto of the president yesterday, has thrown the three bills open to amendment, thus making sweeping changes in the wage-hour law possible.

Ranks Are Split

Republican ranks were also split, with rural Republicans joining in the demand for revision of the law, and those from industrial sections generally defending it. Final action on the three meaures is scheduled for next week.

The battle also saw leaders of two big national farm organizations, the American Farm Bureau Federation and the national Grange, seeking to expand rural industrial exemptions from provisions of the wage-hour act.

Congressmen differed in their interpretations of the house action in voting to consider the Norton, Ramspeck and Barden wage-hour bills and opening them to amendment.

"It means they will riddle the wage-hour act" said Rep. Marcantonio (A-L) N. Y.

"I doubt if you could construe the action as indicating what the house finally will do," said chairman Mary T. Norton, (D) N. J., of the house labor committee.

bombers in Norway are not wholly immune from counter-attack by British fighters."

It was assumed, without official confirmation, that one or more aircraft carries have now been stationed in Norwegian fjords to compensate for Britain's lack of an air base.

(Editor's Note: In an exclusive dispatch from the Swedish-Norwegian frontier, Barbro Alving, International News Service war correspondent disclosed that units of the Royal Air Force have now been stationed "at huge floating airports and large aircraft carries somewhere in the Norwegian fjords.")

Confused Fighting

In any case, British spokesmen took the view that recent allied military manoeuvres had put a stop to the hostilities north of Trondheim.

A high military official said that "confused fighting" occurred in the Steinkjer region yesterday, but once again the allies were able to "re-establish the situation" and "are now holding their positions."

The British and Norwegian troops in this area, it was said, "are in no danger at present."

French troops are now behind the British at Steinkjer, it was said, and are ready to reinforce them whenever necessary.

For the moment, however, there is no pressure from the Germans and none is expected for some time.

were not actually operating thus far against the Germans, it was reported, but being held in reserve until they could be most strategically used.

Third Retreat

London, April 26—The third retreat by British troops in Norway—this time near Dombaas in the southern sector—was announced by the war office today coincident with disclosure that the royal air force has established a temporary base on the surface of a frozen Norwegian lake.

A sharp engagements presumably involving British losses preceded the new withdrawal.

"Strong enemy forces" engaged the British, it was announced, compelling them to fall back.

British withdrawals previously had occurred at Steinkjer and Lillehammer.

The war office communique said:

"Allied troops in southern Norway have been heavily engaged south of Dombaas by strong enemy forces supported by medium artillery, armored fighting vehicles and low-flying aircraft.

Withdrawals Made

"Limited withdrawels have been necessary:

"In the area north of Steinkjer there has been no engagement but patrols have been active.

"There is nothing to report from the Narvik area."

Dombaas, a strategic town in the Gudbrands valley, lies one third of the distance from Romsal to Hamar on the railway line cutting southeast across Norway to the Swedish frontier.

British troops have been driving down this line in an effort to cut off the Germans operating out of Oslo toward the north.

The communique gave no indication of the positions of the attacking German troops, but it was thought likely that they had followed up their successes in the Lillehammer region and swept on toward Dombaas to meet the British.

Pursuit Planes Active

(Editor's note: Dispatches from Stockholm described the activities of large forces of British pursuit planes operating from aircraft carriers and floating air bases somewhere in the Fjords.)

Despite a bombing attack, the air ministry said, the aerial expeditionary force has been able to establish and presumably maintain the base.

News of this major improvement in the British position came simultaneously with disclosure that the Nazis have suffered setbacks at Steinkjer and Roeros and that crack units of the French Foreign Legion are operating with British troops in Norway.

At the same time it was reported that the German advance up the Oesterdalen valley thorugh the heart of Norway had been halted when Nazi detachments were forced to abandon Roeros, which they occupied yesterday, for better defensive positions.

Abandon Roeros

Fear of imminent arrival of fresh British troops caused the Germans to abandon Roeros, according to reports to Stockholm.

(A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said it was reported without confirmation that British warships entered Trondheim Fjord, forcing their way past Agedenes fort, in a new development of the allied offensive against the German-held port on Norway's west coast.

is 75x150 feet and is located on Taylor street, directly next to the old plant. The new building is of concrete block and is lighted inside to almost daylight brightness. The building is so constructed that if and when the need arises, another rolling mill can be installed in it.

The new mill is the most modern unit that can be purchased. Through it will pass strip steel at a rate exceeding thirty miles an hour. The strip unrolls as it is fed into the rolls on one side and is wound on a huge spool as it leaves the other side of the rolls. Being a reversible mill the steel can then be started back through.

The dedication exercises Thursday night were handled by John Peluso, as chairman and he did a real job of it. Baskets of flowers from friends fringed the music platform and the crowd of about 150 present had an evening they will remember.

FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION LAND IN NORWAY TO JOIN ALLIES

a German bomber and three British fighting planes. The German craft was shot down.

Secondly, members of the French expeditionary force confirmed the news.

There is no risk in mentioning the name of Namsos, where not a living soul remains of the original population.

Town Blackened Ruin

Virtually the entire town is a blackened ruin. I watched an old Norwegian who returned to Namsos from his place of refuge, hunting through the ruins of his home while tears streamed down his cheeks. I can attest that not even Viborg at the end of the Russo-Finnish war looked as bad as Namsos.

The only remaining large building in Namsos is the town's hospital, where the French have established a war hospital which will not be bombed.

This was guaranteed by three German prisoner-pilots, who unanimously stated that German bombers have strict orders to respect the Red Cross.

The French military doctors seem to trust the Germans on this point and have made a huge red cross in the snow outside the hospital.

The French troops now have disappeared from Namsos and only a couple of officers and soldiers are left.

It is reported that when the French forces landed at Namsos, those not sent direct to the Trondheim front were swallowed up by the woods far from the town, suffering no losses despite heavy machine-gunning by German planes.

LARGE FORCES OF BRITISH PLANES NOW IN NORWAY

bombers in Norway are not wholly immune from counter-attack by British fighters."

It was assumed, without official confirmation, that one or more aircraft carries have now been stationed in Norwegian fjords to compensate for Britain's lack of an air base.

(Editor's Note: In an exclusive dispatch from the Swedish-Norwegian frontier, Barbro Alving, International News Service war correspondent disclosed that units of the Royal Air Force have now been stationed "at huge floating airports and large aircraft carries somewhere in the Norwegian fjords.")

Confused Fighting

In any case, British spokesmen took the view that recent allied military manoeuvres had put a stop to the hostilities north of Trondheim.

A high military official said that "confused fighting" occurred in the Steinkjer region yesterday, but once again the allies were able to "re-establish the situation" and "are now holding their positions."

The British and Norwegian troops in this area, it was said, "are in no danger at present."

French troops are now behind the British at Steinkjer, it was said, and are ready to reinforce them whenever necessary.

For the moment, however, there is no pressure from the Germans and none is expected for some time.

VEGETARIAN SPEAKS OUT

(International News Service)

LONDON.—A Conscientious Objector, George Bennett, at Westminster Appeal Tribunal, said he did not believe in killing, not even a vegetable. Asked whether a carrot is killed when eaten, Bennett, who eats his vegetables raw, said: "It is a question whether you do kill it. You absorb it into your own system."

NEW WITHDRAWAL MADE BY BRITISH TROOPS IN NORWAY

were not actually operating thus far against the Germans, it was reported, but being held in reserve until they could be most strategically used.

Third Retreat

London, April 26—The third retreat by British troops in Norway—this time near Dombaas in the southern sector—was announced by the war office today coincident with disclosure that the royal air force has established a temporary base on the surface of a frozen Norwegian lake.

A sharp engagements presumably involving British losses preceded the new withdrawal.

"Strong enemy forces" engaged the British, it was announced, compelling them to fall back.

British withdrawals previously had occurred at Steinkjer and Lillehammer.

The war office communique said: "Allied troops in southern Norway have been heavily engaged south of Dombaas by strong enemy forces supported by medium artillery, armored fighting vehicles and low-flying aircraft.

Withdrawals Made

"Limited withdrawels have been necessary:

"In the area north of Steinkjer there has been no engagement but patrols have been active.

"There is nothing to report from the Narvik area."

Dombaas, a strategic town in the Gudbrands valley, lies one third of the distance from Romsal to Hamar on the railway line cutting southeast across Norway to the Swedish frontier.

British troops have been driving down this line in an effort to cut off the Germans operating out of Oslo toward the north.

The communique gave no indication of the positions of the attacking German troops, but it was thought likely that they had followed up their successes in the Lillehammer region and swept on toward Dombaas to meet the British.

Pursuit Planes Active

(Editor's note: Dispatches from Stockholm described the activitics of large forces of British pursuit planes operating from aircraft carriers and floating air bases somewhere in the Fjords.)

Despite a bombing attack, the air ministry said, the aerial expeditionary force has been able to establisn and presumably maintain the base

News of this major improvement in the British position came simultaneously with disclosure that the Nazis have suffered setbacks at Steinkjer and Roeros and that crack units of the French Foreign Legion are operating with British troops in Norway.

At the same time it was reported that the German advance up the Oesterdalen valley thorugh the heart of Norway had been halted when Nazi detachments were forced to abandon Roeros, which they occupied yesterday, for better defensive positions.

Abandon Roeros

Fear of imminent arrival of fresh British troops caused the Germans to abandon Roeros, according to reports to Stockholm.

(A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said it was reported without confirmation that British warships entered Trondheim Fjord, forcing their way past Agedenes fort, in a new development of the allied offensive against the German-held port on Norway's west coast.

wegian west coast we attacked and bombed several British ships. One enemy minesweeper and one transport vessel ran ashore after being hit by bombs. One torpedo boat developed a strong column of smoke and halted, and one tanker, listing heavily, was deserted by its crew.

"The boilers of an enemy supply ship exploded after it was hit by a bomb.

"German planes were damaged by splinters during an air attack on the airport near Trondheim. British fighting planes attacked and bombed Oslo last night. While no military damage was inflicted upon Oslo airport, the extent of the damage to the city has not yet been ascertained fully.

"On the western front there were no particular events. A German reconnaissance plane made an emergency landing in Belgium but the crew was unhurt. During the night several enemy planes penetrated the German (Helgoland) bight. One British plane was shot down and crashed in the sea near Sylt."

is 75x150 feet and is located on Taylor street, directly next to the old plant. The new building is of concrete block and is lighted inside to almost daylight brightness. The building is so constructed that if and when the need arises, another rolling mill can be installed in it.

The new mill is the most modern unit that can be purchased. Through it will pass strip steel at a rate exceeding thirty miles an hour. The strip unrolls as it is fed into the rolls on one side and is wound on a huge spool as it leaves the other side of the rolls. Being a reversible mill the steel can then be started back through.

The dedication exercises Thursday night were handled by John Peluso, as chairman and he did a real job of it. Baskets of flowers from friends fringed the music platform and the crowd of about 150 present had an evening they will remember.

FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION LAND IN NORWAY TO JOIN ALLIES

a German bomber and three British fighting planes. The German craft was shot down.

Secondly, members of the French expeditionary force confirmed the news.

There is no risk in mentioning the name of Namsos, where not a living soul remains of the original population.

Town Blackened Ruin

Virtually the entire town is a blackened ruin. I watched an old Norwegian who returned to Namsos from his place of refuge, hunting through the ruins of his home while tears streamed down his cheeks. I can attest that not even Viborg at the end of the Russo-Finnish war looked as bad as Namsos.

The only remaining large building in Namsos is the town's hospital, where the French have established a war hospital which will not be bombed.

This was guaranteed by three German prisoner-pilots, who unanimously stated that German bombers have strict orders to respect the Red Cross.

The French military doctors seem to trust the Germans on this point and have made a huge red cross in the snow outside the hospital.

The French troops now have disappeared from Namsos and only a couple of officers and soldiers are left.

It is reported that when the French forces landed at Namsos, those not sent direct to the Trondheim front were swallowed up by the woods far from the town, suffering no losses despite heavy machine-gunning by German planes.

ANXIOUS DAYS FOR SWEDEN

HOW long Sweden can maintain her neutrality toward a war which is waging on her Norwegian frontier is a question which is becoming increasingly pertinent as the tempo of the conflict accelerates and the position of the nazis becomes more desperate. As the general pattern of the war unfolds more swiftly it becomes increasingly apparent that Sweden's days of peace are numbered and that soon she will be engulfed in the maelstrom.

Great Britain and France are now concentrating upon the purpose of cutting Germany's sea communications with her forces in Norway, an objective which is possible of attainment. If accomplished, nazi invaders of Norway would be left isolated, or virtually so, as reinforcements by air would necessarily be of limited proportions. In these circumstances, the only alternative open to the nazis would be an invasion of Sweden, which would serve two purposes, that of providing access to Norway—where Germany's army of occupation must be supplemented if it is to parry the increasing strength of Allied forces on Norwegian soil—and at the same time making more secure their hold on Swedish ore.

Sweden, accordingly, lives through anxious days. She has seen Finland ravaged by the bolsheviks and Denmark taken over by the nazis. Norway has become a great battlefield and now there are ominous signs that her own turn has come. Soon, it is apparent, her soil will be joined with that of her neighbor to the west as the battlefield of Europe where the future not only of the Scandinavian countries but also of most of the other nations on the continent will be determined.

ANOTHER ONE FLICKERS OUT

One more pet New Deal project, and a project which was much advertised as an enlightened social experiment at the time of its inauguration, has gone to the bowwows. Aye, it has done even worse than that—it has been leased to private enterprise which must make some of the socialistically minded engineers sudder with disgust.

The project is the co-operative community at Jersey Homesteads. For four years it has struggled as a federal co-operative project to make the grade. It was opened in 1936 after $4,000,000 had been spent on it. It envisioned a subsistence homestead for 200 families and embraced more than 1,200 acres of New Jersey land. It contained a co-operative factory built for New York garment workers. The plant has now been turned over on a five year lease to a firm of New York manufacturers.

Although the factory has been built by the government it never succeeded and in August 1939 it closed and many garment workers moved away. There are 125 families still living on the tract. Just what will become of them remains to be seen.

The co-operative experiment can now be written off the books except for one thing. The millions of federal money expended in building and developing it will have to be made good by the taxpayers of the United States.

It becomes more apparent as time rolls on that government in business seldom, if ever, pays. That the social experiments made with an expenditure of millions of dollars of the government's money during the past seven years haven't paid in a more prosperous America is evident through the number of unemployed who are still walking our streets and the swollen budget for relief expenditures next year, which it is admitted, even by the New Dealers themselves, will be necessary if the present principles and practices of administrative government are continued.

Surely it is about time to try something to encourage private enterprise.

WAR AFTER THE WAR

No matter who wins the wars now ravaging Europe, no matter what kind of a settlement emerges, one thing is certain. It will be followed by a war for trade scarcely less bitter than the military war itself.

Every nation in Europe is frantically expanding its productive facilities. The product of that frenzied activity is being shot away in war, to no one's benefit. But when the war ends and the survivors flock back home, jobs will be a necessity. The expanded factories will await them. The factories must run, for the men must work. They will produce goods for sale. They must be sold.

Sold they will be, by hook or crook, by subsidy or barter or political pressure. Every market in the world will be crowded with them. Into this competitive field, the United States will also be plunged.

How well we shall fare in that maelstrom depends much on what we do now. For instance, Britain is making heroic efforts to continue to export goods in the face of the war effort, in order to hold markets and to provide exchange to buy imports. Yet the United States has already replaced Britain as chief source of Argentina's import trade. Despite the blockade and the sea war, Germany up to February had been contriving to ship to Argentina about one-fourth of her usual export shipments. The war for trade in South America has not even been suspended during the military war.

The United States, inevitably, has been showing great gains, largely at the expense of Germany, but also at that of Britain. Our exports to South America doubled in January as compared with 1939. The Import-Export Bank financed sale of nearly $6,000,000 worth of railroad equipment to Brazil. The New York corporation which built the piers of Lima, Peru, has now contracted to build others at Coronel, Chile. Firestone is building a new rubber factory in Brazil. There are other signs of progress.

But all this has distinct limits unless ways can be contrived to import more from South America. International trade must be roughly an exchange if it is to be built on a permanent foundation. The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce is already hot on the track to discover non-competitive products which can be more liberally bought by the United States in the south, and to encourage such trade.

All this has an importance beyond the purely commercial. Rivals for this trade do not hesitate to use methods of "economic compulsions shrewdly devised to force great areas into political spheres of influence."

Every dollar's worth of trade the United States can secure thus has a benefit beyond the purely commercial. We do not want any such "political spheres of influence." But unless we hold our share of the trade, others have just that much greater opportunity to establish them.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

NATURE'S WAY OF TRAINING CHILD

MANY children under five never have seen the stars. When our eldest child was about four it suddenly occurred to us he had never noticed the lights in the heavens, although we had spent the summer in the country. One night we kept him up for the new experience. Having seen pictures of the moon, he shouted when he saw it, "Moon! Daddy moon! Baby moons!" The baby moons were the stars. For older children, even in the crowded city, looking up at the stars on a clear night is a rich experience.

Some city children beyond 10 or 12, of course, get a touch with nature through camping, scouting and the like. And the city school has done much to acquaint the child with Nature, especially with plants, flowers, small animals and lowly creatures like frogs, snakes and turtles, which are to be seen in the modern elementary classroom. Yet, most city children have never heard the piping of the peepers in the pond, the croaking of the bullfrog or the morning bird chorus of the woods.

Few Have Appreciation

The pity of it is that so many children right in the county have so little conscious appreciation and enjoyment of all the beautiful things of nature about them. When I was a child on a farm in a lovely valley, I did not, as I recall, know many of the trees, flowers and birds by name. But just to recall a sunrise or sunset, or the songs of the birds as I awoke on a spring morning, or of the whippoor-will as I went to bed, gives me more emotion now than any I must have had when I used to live amidst these beauties. I wish I might have been exposed to someone at home or school who habitually experienced emotions over these gems of nature.

If only I had known more of the birds, flowers and trees there by name and had helped my school children know them so, I could have done more good. How much more comfortable and happy we feel when we can address a person by his name. So with the things of Nature; to know them by name is to feel happy with them and enjoy them.

Fortunate is the child whose parents go with him into the woods and fields and by the streams, alert to the growing things and living creatures to be heard or seen; provided, of course, the child learns not to trespass on private property. We parents owe it to the moral character of our children to be exacting of ourselves in these matters and to see that our children learn from their early years to be very considerate of the rights and possessions of other people.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

COMING UP

The U. S. A. and her tabasco-eating neighbor to the south have something in common this Spring. Each is getting steamed up for a hot presidential election. But they're going at it differently. The Mexican government this week placed an order with an American firm for $8,000,000 worth of rifles, artillery pieces, machine guns and airplanes. —blandly explaining it wants to be prepared for "any eventuality" which may arise during the campaign. There'll be plenty of "eventualities" arising during our campaign; voters here will be under a barrage of rhetorical artillery that may cause a few nervous breakdowns—but no gunshot wounds. The U. S. will be quite content to limp along with its verbal fireworks, leaving the actual gunfire to our temperamental neighbors down Mexico way.

Why does the Mexican government think rifles and ammunition are necessary to put through an election. Well, they so say that Mr. Stalin and Mr. Hitler have an organization in Mexico, preparing to seize the Government and run it on a strictly communistic basis. That is why.

Mexico has been run that way ever since Diaz handled it. Diaz handled it very honorably but very dictatorially. Cardenas is just a common garden variety of communist, but what Cardenas wants is to run things,—President or not. He wishes to be Dictator.

Incidentally, the American manufacturers of rifles and ammunition had better get their money before the artillery passes the Border or they never will get it, and this is advice from one who knows.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

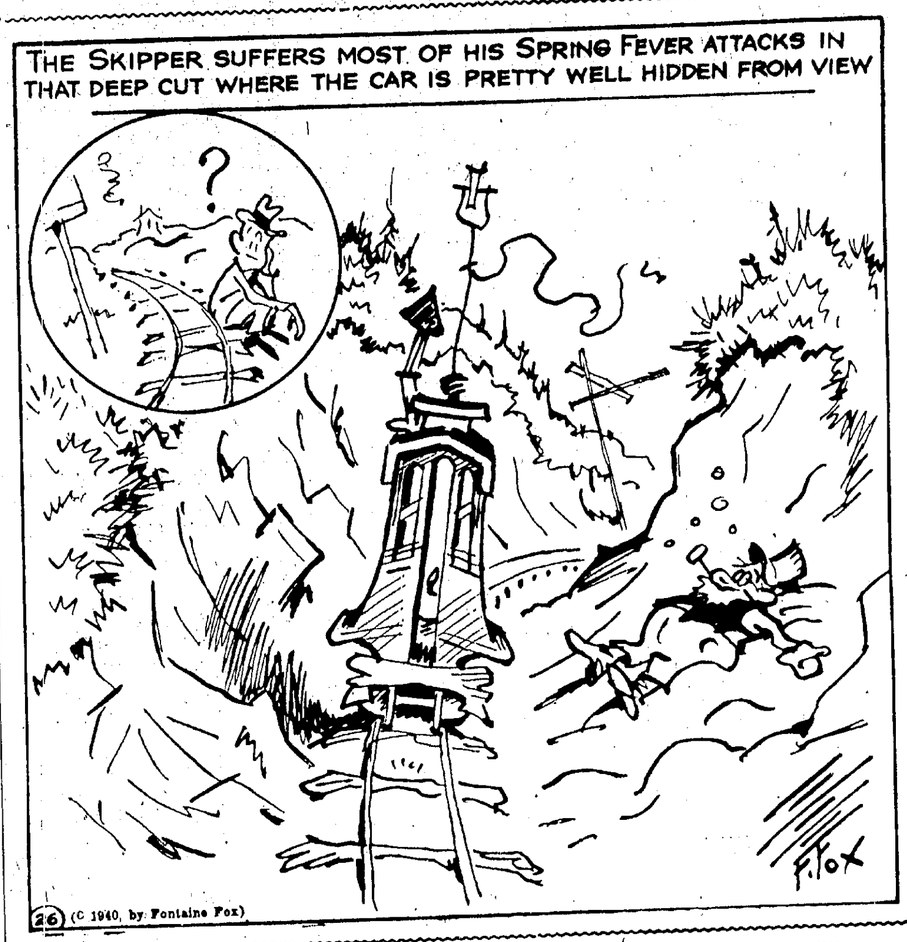

ALBANY, N. Y.—Governor Herbert H. Lehman, declaring as long as all faiths in the United States are determined to retain religious liberty America's democratic form of government will prevail:

"Tyrants have come, have had their day and then have gone—but religion has survived them all. The love of God and the desire to serve Him are intangibles that no earthly ruler can dismiss with decrees or armies."

LONDON—Arthur Greenwood, M. P. deputy leader of the labor opposition, stating that many neutrals will fight on the allies' side before the war is over:

"But I am not one of those who would plead with neutral powers to join us. I am satisfied that the powers arrayed on our side against Germany are amply sufficient."

TAINTED REPUTATION

A famous doctor had purchased a farm and stocked it with hogs. Some time after the deal he was called as a witness in a court case. After he testified, the other side called one of the doctor's neighbors, a lanky corn-hog expert.

"Now, Mr. Smith," said the attorney, addressing the farmer. "Please give the court your opinion of Mr. Blank's reputation for veracity."

The farmer was an ignorant back woodsman who did not understand the meaning of the word "veracity," but went ahead just the same.

"Wa-al, he has a pretty good reputation, but he has got to get his neighbors to call his hogs for him; they don't believe the doctor," said the backswoodsman.

Daylight saving time is being adopted in about 20 states. That will just inconvenience the other 28 states.

They say that certain things improve with age—particularly wine. That sometimes holds true with jokes. I recall this old rhyme—it's 50 years old, if a day:—F. S. W.

Don't worry if your job is small
And your rewards are few;
Remember that the mighty oak
Was once a nut like you.

The mote in your brother's eye isn't nice, of course, but consider how your brother feels about the one in your eye.

We have noticed that quite a few of the planks in political platforms start rotting right after an election.

Not original:

"The world is overflowing with trouble caused by the unwillingness of men to treat their fellowmen as they themselves would be treated."

Seems to me marijuana is talked about too much and is given undue publicity. I am reminded of an evangelist who bitterly denounced girl shows. With that sort of publicity, the girl shows were packed to the doors.

It is always a delightful surprise to find humor in the dictionary. Ours says the bagpipe is a musical instrument.

We need no help to make a war boom like the last one. We can buy America's output, destroy it, and then make ourselves pay for it.

This war will settle one question. We'll find out whether America can survive without foreign trade.

Courtesy never gets a man into trouble.

"Is your wife addicted to garrulousness?" asked a friend of a Third ward man. "I never heard of that sort of a drink," he replied. "But I'm pretty sure she isn't because she hardly ever touches a drop.

As a general rule the heartbeat of larger animals is slower than that of smaller ones. The heart of an elephant beats about 25 times, that of a new-born child, about 130, that of an old man from 60 to 75 and that of a canary 1,000 times a minute!

There are several things that make a person look back. One is when he becomes a great grandpap and another is when his youngest child celebrates his silver wedding anniversary.

"What is a maxim?" a boy asked his dad.

"Son," he replied, "it is something a man hangs over his desk and never practices."

A driver smashed into the curb yesterday and an officer rushed up to the car and yelled: "What's the matter with you? Are you blind?" "Blind, nothing," replied the driver, "I hit it, didn't I?"

Today's voluminous mail yields this query reflecting one of the chief worries of the typical modern lass of that age: "Is it all right for a girl of 17 to go with boys 21 and 22? I like them much better. Younger boys act silly."

Here is a perfectly normal appraisal of boys. The girl of 17, the remainder of whose letter proves that she is normal, is just as mature as the boys she prefers, if they are normal. Personally, I would prefer a daughter of mine in the late teens to become interested in boys five years older than she is provided I could keep her well within my protection. Everything else being equal, I think the older boys are the more respectful to the younger girls. For the husband of a daughter 22 I should prefer a man of 32 to one of her own age not only because he would probably be better established financially but because when she is 45 he, at 55, will probably treat her better than if he were only 45. But this 17-year-old correspondent fo mine very badly needs the guidance of a very human, broadminded mother, aunt or big sister in whom she can confide. I hope she will not be allowed to ride into the lonely places with the older boys. She presents what, to parents, is the problem of problems.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: Are place cards used at luncheons?—Mary.

Answer: At formal luncheons, yes; at informal luncheons, the hostess usually designates where the guests are to be seated unless a too large number of guests might necessitate place cards.

Dear Miss Markel: It riles me to have a player show her hand to her dummy partner prior to playing. Isn't this one of the "don'ts" of bridge?—A.

Answer: Technically speaking, I suppose it is, but who can avoid this overwhelming desire, especially if the hand has slam possibilities. It is just one of those very human traits.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

Tomorrow—He-Naggers.

MUSIC NOTES

"What is your occupation?"
"I used to be an organist."
"And why did you give it up?"

A boy was sent to a dentist by his mother. "My mother sent me to make an appointment with the dentist," he told the office girl.

"I'm sorry, but he's out," she answered.

"Oh, that's all right," the boy assured her, "when will he be out again?"

Office Philosopher: "If you are old-fashioned, people will laugh at you, but your position is safer than the fools laughing at you."

A man in Wampum is about to move. He was informed by his landlord, "You must leave my house exactly as you found it." So the man is trying to find 5,000 cockroaches. He claims he killed that number while a tenant.

Beer is not considered a liquor by some people. Just the same a mighty scandalous drunk can be acquired if one licks it up long enough.

They tell of a local father who is a very amiable person in public. They add he does this so people will think the child of the family takes after its mother.

Insurance Agent: "Now that you are married, I suppose you will take out a policy?"

Newwed: "Oh, no, I guess not, I don't think she is going to be dangerous."

No doubt if Hitler cleans up his enemies in Europe he will cast his eyes in the direction of America. We want to have things here so it will discourage him when he looks.

When Pap went to church last Sunday and when he came out he found his dog asleep in his car. "I can't understand it," mused Pap. "He wasn't in the church, either."

I have to laugh when I recall the old story about the garbage man. A little girl told her mother: "Mama, our garbage man sure is a nice man. He was carrying a large can of garbage over to his wagon, and while he had it over his head the bottom came out, and the garbage fell all over him, and he just stood there and talked with God all the time."

Men will out up away from home. The more they're afraid to spill ashes at home, the worse meas they make in a hotel room.

A certain Ellwood City woman got into black looks of her neighborhood. "She ain't no lady," says one neighbor. "Imagine borrowing your bridge table and then not inviting you to the party."

We rise to the defense of the modern girl's cooking. Many a 1939 model bride can cook just as well as mother could when mother was a bride.

A local woman was engaging a new maid. She said, "Mary, we have breakfast at eight." All right, mum," replied the maid, "if I ain't down, don't wait on me."

A local young man has come to his senses. He has decided to embrace fewer girls and more opportunities.

Yet there is still hope for a world where millions of householders have no problem more serious than dandelions.

Washington Ponders Hull's Warning
"Advice" Over East Indies Debated
Japanese Have Been Building Navy

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

STATE SECRETARY CORDELL HULL'S warning to Japan to keep out of the Dutch East Indies even if Germany invades Holland has been the talk of Washington ever since the cabinet chief broadcast it recently.

Just how much it meant is what the capital would like to know.

It wasn't expressed like a threat. Perhaps it's a little too strong to call it a "warning." But it was "advice" anyway, and maybe rather more than that, considering that it hadn't been asked for.

Congress has reacted in three different ways. Of course the extreme isolationists are horrified. They say they've believed all along that the administration's tendency is toward involving us in some sort of war and that that utterance by Secretary Hull was quite a long step in that direction. A second group of lawmakers hold that it was an ideal expression of Uncle Sam's view of the situation. A third group is simply puzzled.

Washington diplomacy is split up about as might have been expected. The British and French embassies are all smiles. The Netherlands legation is jubilant. The other little neutrals are gratified. The German and Japanese embassies are glumly silent—the Japanese embassy especially.

Our Navy's View

One Washington newspaper headed its story of the Hull statement thus:

"Stay Out of Dutch East Indies, Hull Tells Japan; Navy Asks 3 Billions to Build Up to Britain."

That combination of ideas is rather suggestive.

"Hull tells Japan three naval billions."

A yarn was published the other day to the effect that the Japanese, very unostentatiously, have been building up their navy until it's stronger, at present, than Uncle Samuel's.

American naval authorities don't take this report at all seriously. Still, they do say that the mikado has been building faster than we have. They add that Japan isn't as strong actually afloat as it looks on paper, because a good deal of its warship construction is very faulty. All the same, they point out that any Japanese-American naval clash would be in the Japs' immediate oceanic yard, while our share would be at a several-thousand-mile range—a distinct disadvantage to our side. We'd need to be considerably stronger than Nippon is.

Warship Building Takes Time

It isn't quite clear what good our proposed $3,000,000,000 naval program would do us at the present juncture.

It would take a matter of some few years to get three billions' worth of new American warships afloat, and if we happen to have a bit of friction with the Japanese over the Netherlands East Indies, it will be pretty immediate. Nevertheless, it's an opportune time for Admiral Stark, our chief of naval operations, to call attention to our deficiency, whatever it may amount to—and he's the first-class judge of it, doubtless.

In short, our naval experts are slightly alarmist.

Our army experts are slightly less so. They say, "Since militaristic Japan can't lick pacifistic China, what chance is there that the Japs will try to take on Uncle Sam also?"

However, the army and navy are more or less jealous of one another. If three billions are to be handed out for defense, the army wants its share of it.

A decade and a half ago it was internationally agreed that the

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

by The Baltimore Sun
(Copyright, 1940)

"The Politician's Dream"

Washington, April 12.

AS the national conventions approach there probably will be even more talk than now about the necessity of having in the White House for the next four years a President competent to handle our foreign affairs. One of the chief arguments of the third termers is that no one can do this, except Mr. Roosevelt.

IN that connection the case of Mr. Jimmie Cromwell, our elegant Minister to Canada, is worth reviewing. The review is made timely by the announcement of this great diplomat that he will resign in a few days in order to enter the Democratic primaries in New Jersey as a candidate for the United States Senate. Thus, the Cromwell entrance and exit from our diplomatic service establishes a record. No similar incident has occurred in our history. Whoever succeeds Mr. Roosevelt, it hardly will be repeated.

THE facts speak for themselves. Without experience, or any other even suggested qualification other than that he is the husband of one of the richest women in the world, contributed liberally to the 1936 campaign fund and is nationally known as a "playboy," Mr. Roosevelt named Mr. Cromwell to this important post early in January. Before the appointment, it had been widely published that Mr. Frank Hague, unsavory boss of New Jersey, intended to nominate Mr. Cromwell for Senator this fall and the Canadian appointment was considered desirable as a campaign "build-up." No one, of course, contends that Mr. Roosevelt was not fully aware of this situation, that he did not know Mr. Cromwell intended to stay in Canada only a few months, wanted the post merely because it helped his Senatorial aspirations.

THAT under these circumstances, and in a period so critical, such a man as this could be chosen for one of the most important posts in the diplomatic services is an almost incredible thing. If this is competence in the handling of foreign affairs, then the word has lost its meaning. If this is keeping our relations with our neighbors on a high plane, then it would be difficult to recognize a low one. If this is safe leadership in a world crisis, then the national need for change is very great, indeed.

IN the three months he has served Mr. Cromwell has distinguished himself twice—first, by making a speech of such character as to cause embarrassment in Washington and bring a stern rebuke from Secretary Hull; second, by suddenly appearing in Detroit at the highly publicized wedding of a 45-year-old radio comedian to a 16-year-old child. Now that he is returning to New Jersey it is clear that the support of Mr. Hague will insure him the Senatorial nomination. As in the case of his appointment to Canada, the only conceivable reason for nominating Mr. Cromwell for the Senate is his possession of great wealth and his willingness to part with some of it.

A FRIEND of Mr. Hague, returning from Miami, reports that, speaking one day down there with the Jersey boss about the Cromwell candidacy, the latter complacently said "It's the politician's dream, ain't it?" Certainly, it seems so. Never has there been quite so fat a cat, nor one so purringly willing, as now appears in the Jersey primaries. One interesting though incidental reaction is the slight embarrassment caused the New Deal political propagandists.

FOR eight years they have harped steadily upon the wealthy enemies of the New Deal. Lambasting the Liberty League, the du Ponts, the Weirs, the Pews, the Grundys and others, the idea they sought to convey was that all the rich—particularly the idle rich—were against Mr. Roosevelt, the noble champion of the downtrodden and poor. Of course, it wasn't a sound idea, but it was effective campaign buncombe. Now, Mr. Cromwell, richer and more idle than any of the targets on the other side, looms up as a conspicuous Roosevelt favorite, heavy campaign contributor, ardent New Dealer and Senatorial candidate. He cramps their style. They can't make it stick any more.

SCISSOR SEARCH

When a little lad was I, oft my mother used to say:
"Find my scissors now for me! They have somehow gone astray.
Here's a ribbon I would cut; here's a bit of verse I'd spare.
Run upstairs, my boy, and see if I left my scissors there."

Then I searched the house about; gave up precious time for play.
Searching scissors everywhere which had somehow slipped away.
And I went from room to room, glance in every nook I cast
For the mother seldom knew where she'd used her scissors last.

Just one pair was all we had and the family numbered eight.
So they went from hand to hand since the need for them was great.
And back then I used to wish that the happy day would fall
When of scissors we should own sets enough for one and all.

That was many years ago, but I still am climbing stairs,
Seeking scissors she's mislaid, though we own a dozen pairs!
Still am searching room by room, as I did in mother's day,
Hunting scissors far and near that have somehow gone astray.

world's big navies should be maintained on a fixed basis:

Five for Uncle Sam; five for John Bull; three for Japan; smaller fractions for France and Italy.

That dicker has gone into the discard. John Bull has overbuilt his five. Uncle Samuel has underbuilt his figure. The Japanese have overbuilt their three. Nobody has paid much attention to France and Italy.

There's no bargain in force any longer.

Japanese Viewpoint

Here's what Japan is saying:

"Germany invaded Denmark. Greenland is a Danish possession. Thereupon Uncle considers it his right to protect Greenland against being grabbed by the Germans, as Danish property. Why? Why, because Greenland is near-American.

"Well, suppose Germany gobbles Holland. The Dutch East Indies are Dutch property, and they're near-Japanese. Then why, if the Germans invade Holland, haven't the Japanese an equal right to protect the Dutch East Indies?"

One difference is that Greenland isn't worth anything, whereas the Dutch East Indies are immensely valuable.

Another difference is that Uncle same is considered "on the level" in the Greenland instance, and that Japan isn't so considered in the case of the Dutch East Indies.

What's What At A Glance

world's big navies should be maintained on a fixed basis:

Five for Uncle Sam; five for John Bull; three for Japan; smaller fractions for France and Italy.

That dicker has gone into the discard. John Bull has overbuilt his five. Uncle Samuel has underbuilt his figure. The Japanese have overbuilt their three. Nobody has paid much attention to France and Italy.

There's no bargain in force any longer.

Japanese Viewpoint

Here's what Japan is saying:

"Germany invaded Denmark. Greenland is a Danish possession. Thereupon Uncle considers it his right to protect Greenland against being grabbed by the Germans, as Danish property. Why? Why, because Greenland is near-American.

"Well, suppose Germany gobbles Holland. The Dutch East Indies are Dutch property, and they're near-Japanese. Then why, if the Germans invade Holland, haven't the Japanese an equal right to protect the Dutch East Indies?"

One difference is that Greenland isn't worth anything, whereas the Dutch East Indies are immensely valuable.

Another difference is that Uncle same is considered "on the level" in the Greenland instance, and that Japan isn't so considered in the case of the Dutch East Indies.

Annual Session Of Presbyterial

Women Of Shenango Presbytery Gather At Westfield On Thursday

MEET NEXT YEAR AT LEESBURG CHURCH

Alcwyn Roberts, from the Asheville Farm school, Ky., and Mrs. Clara Hedberg-Bruen of Chosen, Korea, were principal speakers at the meeting of Shenango Presbyterial in the Westfield Presbyterian church Thursday, attended by nearly 350 members throughout the day.

The speakers this year proved unusually interesting, Mr. Roberts telling of his work at the farm school, during the afternoon session, and Mrs. Bruen telling of her work in Korea. At the evening session Mr. Bruen showed a most enlightening technicolor movie of Korea.

Banquet Event

The young people's banquet was served at 6:30 p. m. in Westfield Grange hall to nearly 225. Paul Wallace, president of the Young People's league, presided at the dinner, when installation of young people's officers took place, the following being installed: president, Paul Wallace, Westfield church; vice president, Wilbur Hoffmaster, West Middlesex; secretary, Mary Elizabeth Jenkins, Central Presbyterian church, New Castle; treasurer, Geraldine Weisbaker, Mahoningtown Presbyterian. Miss Jane Byers of New Wilmington had charge of the music.

Mrs. J. Wylie Brewster, president of the Presbyterial, presided at the morning session, and Mrs. W. C. Ferver, Unity, conducted devotions. After greetings from Mrs. A. H. Fullerton, Westfield, an impressive memorial service was conducted by Mrs. J. B. Cutler, Sharpsville.

After greetings from Mrs. Bruen, for the foreign board, and Mrs. Roberts for the national board, officers were elected. Newly elected officers are: vice president of the Sharon district, Mrs. J. E. Cowling, Sharon; vice president of the Ellwood City district, Mrs. J. M. Houk, New Castle R. D. 1; recording secretary, Mrs. Walter Simpson, Ellwood City; secretary of missionary education, Mrs. Harlan Gillespie, Ellwood City R. D. 1; secretary of overseas hospital work, Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser, New Castle; assistant corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. M. Byers, New Wilmington.

Afternoon Session

At the afternoon session, Mrs. Brewster presiding, the worship service was conducted by Mrs. Robert Meade Patterson, Central Presbyterian church, New Castle. Mr. Roberts' address followed the treasurer's report of Mrs. F. R. Woods. Miss Dorothy Robison, Westfield, favored the assemblage with a vocal solo, followed by Mrs. Bruen's address, committee reports and installation of officers, with Mrs. Thomas G. Berger of Slippery Rock in charge.

Mrs. Clifford P. Propst, young people's secretary, presided at the evening session and Miss Geraldine Fry had charge of the worship service.

At this time, Rev. E. A. Shoemaker, pastor of Westfield church, announced the summer conferences which will be held at Grove City college.

Music by the Bessemer Young People's choir featured the evening meeting. The choir is under the direction of Joseph Martin. "Mountain Youth at the Crossroads" was Mr. Roberts' topic for the evening session, which was followed by the offering and a hymn with Miss Margaret Duff as accompanist. After the technicolor movie and announcements, Rev. Shoemaker gave the benediction.

Next year's meeting of Shenango Presbyterial will be held at the Leesburg Presbyterian church.

Young Boy Dies From Exposure On Mountainside

(International News Service)

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., April 26.—Exposure, aided by exhaustion and hunger, today was given as the official cause of the death of Charles Morgan, 14-year-old schoolboy from Snow Shoe, who became lost while on a fishing expedition. His companion, Edward Huntingdon, 14, managed to save himself.

First news of thetragic affair came when Huntingdon stumbled into the Snow Shoe Mountain House and reported Charles missing. Searchers immediately set out and hours later found Morgan's body near a hunting camp.

The survivor said the pair lost their direction after fishing in Moshannon creek. They wandered about the mountains until sundown and then chanced upon a coal house, where they went to sleep. Edward said he awoke in the middle of the night and discovered Charles had gone. Edward wandered about the area for almost 24 hours without food before accidentally stumbling upon the Mountain House.

ROAD RULES STILL HOLD

(International News Service)

LONDON.—For walking into a stationary automobile at a road intersection, Charles T. Bolton of Poplar received $60 in a police court. Judge Hunter, who decided the case, said that road rules in the case of obstruction had not changed despite the blackout and that the motorists's warning shout, was not sufficient warning to pedestrians.

Annual Session Of Presbyterial

Women Of Shenango Presbytery Gather At Westfield On Thursday

MEET NEXT YEAR AT LEESBURG CHURCH

Alcwyn Roberts, from the Asheville Farm school, Ky., and Mrs. Clara Hedberg Bruen of Chosen, Korea, were principal speakers at the meeting of Shenango Presbyterial in the Westfield Presbyterian church Thursday, attended by nearly 350 members throughout the day.

The speakers this year proved unusually interesting, Mr. Roberts telling of his work at the farm school, during the afternoon session, and Mrs. Bruen telling of her work in Korea. At the evening session Mr. Bruen showed a most enlightening technicolor movie of Korea.

Banquet Event

The young people's banquet was served at 6:30 p. m. in Westfield Grange hall to nearly 225. Paul Wallace, president of the Young People's league, presided at the dinner, when installation of young people's officers took place, the following being installed: president, Paul Wallace, Westfield church; vice president, Wilbur Hoffmaster, West Middlesex; secretary, Mary Elizabeth Jenkins, Central Presbyterian church, New Castle; treasurer, Geraldine Weisbaker, Mahoningtown Presbyterian. Miss Jane Byers of New Wilmington had charge of the music.

Mrs. J. Wylie Brewster, president of the Presbyterial, presided at the morning session, and Mrs. W. C. Ferver, Unity, conducted devotions. After greetings from Mrs. A. H. Fullerton, Westfield, an impressive memorial service was conducted by Mrs. J. B. Cutler, Sharpsville.

After greetings from Mrs. Bruen, for the foreign board, and Mrs. Roberts for the national board, officers were elected. Newly elected officers are: vice president of the Sharon district, Mrs. J. E. Cowling, Sharon; vice president of the Ellwood City district, Mrs. J. M. Houk, New Castle R. D. 1; recording secretary, Mrs. Walter Simpson, Ellwood City; secretary of missionary education, Mrs. Harlan Gillespie, Ellwood City R. D. 1; secretary of overseas hospital work, Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser, New Castle; assistant corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. M. Byers, New Wilmington.

Afternoon Session

At the afternoon session, Mrs. Brewster presiding, the worship service was conducted by Mrs. Robert Meade Patterson, Central Presbyterian church, New Castle. Mr. Roberts' address followed the treasurer's report of Mrs. F. R. Woods. Miss Dorothy Robison, Westfield, favored the assemblage with a vocal solo, followed by Mrs. Bruen's address, committee reports and installation of officers, with Mrs. Thomas G. Berger of Slippery Rock in charge.

Mrs. Clifford P. Propst, young people's secretary, presided at the evening session and Miss Geraldine Fry had charge of the worship service.

At this time, Rev. E. A. Shoemaker, pastor of Westfield church, announced the summer conferences which will be held at Grove City college.

Music by the Bessemer Young People's choir featured the evening meeting. The choir is under the direction of Joseph Martin. "Mountain Youth at the Crossroads" was Mr. Roberts' topic for the evening session, which was followed by the offering and a hymn with Miss Margaret Duff as accompanist. After the technicolor movie and announcements, Rev. Shoemaker gave the benediction.

Next year's meeting of Shenango Presbyterial will be held at the Leesburg Presbyterian church.

Young Boy Dies From Exposure On Mountainside

(International News Service)

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., April 26.—Exposure, aided by exhaustion and hunger, today was given as the official cause of the death of Charles Morgan, 14-year-old schoolboy from Snow Shoe, who became lost while on a fishing expedition. His companion, Edward Huntingdon, 14, managed to save himself.

First news of thetragic affair came when Huntingdon stumbled into the Snow Shoe Mountain House and reported Charles missing. Searchers immediately set out and hours later found Morgan's body near a hunting camp.

The survivor said the pair lost their direction after fishing in Moshannon creek. They wandered about the mountains until sundown and then chanced upon a coal house, where they went to sleep. Edward said he awoke in the middle of the night and discovered Charles had gone. Edward wandered about the area for almost 24 hours without food before accidentally stumbling upon the Mountain House.

ROAD RULES STILL HOLD

(International News Service)

LONDON.—For walking into a stationary automobile at a road intersection, Charles T. Bolton of Poplar received $60 in a police court. Judge Hunter, who decided the case, said that road rules in the case of obstruction had not changed despite the blackout and that the motorists's warning shout, was not sufficient warning to pedestrians.

International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 26—The James administration looked forward today to a short and expeditious special session of the general assembly to appropriate relief funds with Republican leaders holding a tight rein over legislative proceedings.

The session will open at 3 p. m. on May 6 in response to a formal call which will be issued probably Monday by Gov. Arthur H. James. After a brief meeting it will reconvene the same evening to hear an address by the governor at 8 p. m. which will be broadcast. The special session was made necessary by the depletion next month of the $121,000,000 relief budget.

Adjourn By May 19

Governor James expects the legislature to adjourn no later than May 19. He faces the first special session of his administration with the expectation that the legislature will appropriate, mostly through transfers from the motor fund, an estimated $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 in relief funds, attend to a few other stipulated subjects, and then go home quickly so as not to conflict with the Republican national convention which meets in Philadelphia June 24.

Among the subjects which will be included in the call is the extension of the Pittsburgh to Harrisburg superhighway to Philadelphia (at federal government's expense), possibly revision of the unemployment compensation laws to bring them into conformity with those of the federal government, and non-controversial enabling legislation affecting the General State Authority and the departments of revenue and public instruction.

No Controversies

Unlike the 1939 regular session, the Democratic minority, long on oratory but short on votes, will be given as little leeway as possible. "No controversies at this session" is the watchword of the James administration.

Thanks to several special senatorial elections to fill vacancies which were held following adjournment last May of the regular session, Republicans next month will hold firm control over the upper house as well as the lower chamber.

Senate Democrats, who held the balance of power last year with the Republicans lacking a majority vote, will have to content themselves with oral objections to measures which they oppose. House Democrats may not even have a chance to do that, for in the lower chamber the Republican majority is so overwhelming that it can shut off debate whenever it wishes.

The Democratic chance will come next January, however, when the regular session reconvenes, regardless of which party controls the legislature after the fall elections. Most of the $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 needed for relief is expected to come from the motor fund and must be repaid by May 31, 1941. This will force the 1941 legislature to undertake a complete revision of Pennsylvania's tax structure. In addition another $45,000,000 in relief will be needed for the remainder of the biennium.

A few millions, more or less, are expected to be obtained for relief purposes this year from the savings of executive departments and possibly from excess income obtained from the corporate net income tax, the personal property tax and other levies now in force.

Shooting Victim In Critical Condition

Husband Accidentally Shoots Wife While Practicing Target At Jackson Center

(Special To The News)

MERCER, April 26.—Mrs. Maude Perrine, aged 61, of Jackson Center, is in a serious condition at Mercer Cottage hospital, the result of a bullet wound received late Thursday afternoon.

Her husband, Thomas Perrine, aged 68, a barber at Jackson Center, was shooting target from the back porch of their home with a .22-long rifle, using a telescopic sight, when Mrs. Perrine walked around the corner of the house into the path of the bullet. The bullet entered her right side, passed through the liver and abdomen and came out the left side.

Sheriff Alex Elliott of Mercer and Sergeant Millegan from Mercer barracks of the Pennsylvania state motor police conducted an investigation and found the shooting purely accidental.

Mr. Perrine is not being held.

Throng 'Y' Today For Camp Reunion

Camp life along Slippery Rock creek—particularly at Camp Fred L. Rentz of the Y. M. C. A.—will be recalled this afternoon when 120 "Y" rooters gather for the annual Camp Rentz indoor reunion in the "Y" building.

The program gets under way at 4:30 with a swimming period and continues with a hamburg fry and general booster session about the 1940 camp atractions until evening.

Assistant General Secretary Henry T. MacNicholas said today's reunion will be the biggest ever staged.

Camp registration will formally open during the afternoon and scores are expected to affix their names to the camp roll.

Registered 1940 campers and former campers will attend an indoor jamboree, probably the merriest pre-camp affair each year, in the "Y" the third week of May.

Expect Special Legislative Session To Be Brief

Expect Session End By May 19

Extension Of Superhighway To Be Considered In Addition To Relief

REPUBLICANS WILL CONTROL ASSEMBLY

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 26—The James administration looked forward today to a short and expeditious special session of the general assembly to appropriate relief funds with Republican leaders holding a tight rein over legislative proceedings.

The session will open at 3 p. m. on May 6 in response to a formal call which will be issued probably, Monday by Gov. Arthur H. James. After a brief meeting it will reconvene the same evening to hear an address by the governor at 8 p. m. which will be broadcast. The special session was made necessary by the depletion next month of the $121,000,000 relief budget.

Adjourn By May 19

Governor James expects the legislature to adjourn no later than May 19. He faces the first special session of his administration with the expectation that the legislature will appropriate, mostly through transfers from the motor fund, an estimated $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 in relief funds, attend to a few other stipulated subjects, and then go home quickly so as not to conflict with the Republican national convention which meets in Philadelphia June 24.

Among the subjects which will be included in the call is the extension of the Pittsburgh to Harrisburg superhighway to Philadelphia (at federal government's expense), possibly revision of the unemployment compensation laws to bring them into conformity with those of the federal government, and non-controversial enabling legislation affecting the General State Authority and the departments of revenue and public instruction.

No Controversies

Unlike the 1939 regular session, the Democratic minority, long on oratory but short on votes, will be given as little leeway as possible. "No controversies at this session" is the watchword of the James administration.

Thanks to several special senatorial elections to fill vacancies which were held following adjournment last May of the regular session, Republicans next month will hold firm control over the upper house as well as the lower chamber.

Senate Democrats, who held the balance of power last year with the Republicans lacking a majority vote, will have to content themselves with oral objections to measures which they oppose. House Democrats may not even have a chance to do that, for in the lower chamber the Republican majority is so overwhelming that it can shut off debate whenever it wishes.

The Democratic chance will come next January, however, when the regular session reconvenes, regardless of which party controls the legislature after the fall elections. Most of the $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 needed for relief is expected to come from the motor fund and must be repaid by May 31, 1941. This will force the 1941 legislature to undertake a complete revision of Pennsylvania's tax structure. In addition another $45,000,000 in relief will be needed for the remainder of the biennium.

A few millions, more or less, are expected to be obtained for relief purposes this year from the savings of executive departments and possibly from excess income obtained from the corporate net income tax, the personal property tax and other levies now in force.

Husband Accidentally Shoots Wife While Practicing Target At Jackson Center

(Special To The News)

MERCER, April 26.—Mrs. Maude Perrine, aged 61, of Jackson Center, is in a serious condition at Mercer Cottage hospital, the result of a bullet wound received late Thursday afternoon.

Her husband, Thomas Perrine, aged 68, a barber at Jackson Center, was shooting target from the back porch of their home with a .22-long rifle, using a telescopic sight, when Mrs. Perrine walked around the corner of the house into the path of the bullet. The bullet entered her right side, passed through the liver and abdomen and came out the left side.

Sheriff Alex Elliott of Mercer and Sergeant Millegan from Mercer barracks of the Pennsylvania state motor police conducted an investigation and found the shooting purely accidental.

Mr. Perrine is not being held.

Arts-Crafts Show Planned For City

Lions Today Announce Exhibit Will Open Downtown May 20

New Castle's Lions club will sponsor an "Arts and Crafts Exhibit" for the city's little-known "one-man industries" during the week of May 20.

Not a hobby show, the proposed exhibit will be a display "of articles and devices of all kinds and sorts" made locally, particularly, but not necessarily, by individuals on their own premises."

The East Washington street store room formerly occupied by the Ehrlich clothing firm has been reserved for the week, Paul . Dingledy, chairman of the Lions committee in charge announced today.

In The Castleton Thursday, Dingledy and an 18-man committee set the planning machinery in motion.

Dingledy explained the show this way:

"The purpose is to give every man and or woman in town an opportunity to show the public what he or she is capable of making. Exhibits will be carefully studied for possible commercial development. The project, we think, is a logical follow-up to the recent Pioneer Week celebration. Our 'modern pioneers' can show their ingenuity and ability."

All exhibitors, too, will compete for cash prizes, Dingledy said.. Further announcement will explain these awards.

Admission to the exhibit will be free to the public. Entry can be made through formal entry blanks which will appear later in The News.

With the primary elections over it now becomes necessary to have the returns counted officially and the official return board started today. On the board are Mrs. Joseph Brooks, Thomas F. Maher, Sr., Margaret W. Lynch and C. A. Cleaveland.

The board does not go into the ballot boxes except in case of an error. It is really an auditing board which audits the return sheets, sees that the ballots cast are accounted for and that the proper number of blank ballots are left over. Usually there is some reason for calling in one or two ballot boxes to determine what the right score should be.

The board will work in the new room which fronts on McCready Way.

The case of Frank J. Wells against the County of Lawrence went to the jury Thursday afternoon. The case is one in which Mr. Wells claims damages for damage to his farm in Big Beaver township due to a road improvement. This is the second trial, a former verdict being set aside and a new trial granted.

In the case of Celia Saylor and Cale Saylor against Norman and Mildred Alborn, a verdict for the defendant was given which means that no damages were assessed. The plaintiffs are from Youngstown and claim that on November 24, 1938 their car was struck from the rear by the defendants in Tarentum, Pa. The claim was for $25,000.

Before Judge W. Walter Braham in court room number one the case of Walter Leehaven against Carl Majors for damages was taken up. This is a case in which the plaintiff lost an ear in a fight in Ellwood City early in January. A criminal prosecution convicted Majors of assault and battery.

Throng 'Y' Today For Camp Reunion

Camp life along Slippery Rock creek—particularly at Camp Fred L. Rentz of the Y. M. C. A.—will be recalled this afternoon when 120 "Y" rooters gather for the annual Camp Rentz indoor reunion in the "Y" building.

The program gets under way at 4:30 with a swimming period and continues with a hamburg fry and general booster session about the 1940 camp atractions until evening.

Assistant General Secretary Henry T. MacNicholas said today's reunion will be the biggest ever staged.

Camp registration will formally open during the afternoon and scores are expected to affix their names to the camp roll.

Registered 1940 campers and former campers will attend an indoor jamboree, probably the merriest pre-camp affair each year, in the "Y" the third week of May.

Two Women Claim Ashes Of Deceased Los Angeles Man

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—Just a week after his death, two women who had been wives of Joseph H. Plante, local business man, were engaged in a strange court battle today.

They both claimed his ashes. One of them, Mrs. Elisabeth Plante, filed a suit to prevent a cemetery from delivering the ashes to Mrs. Pearl C. Plante, whom Plant married last June.

Mrs. Elizabeth Plante contended that the divorce Plante obtained from her in Nevada was not valid, since he had not lived in that state for the required six weeks.

She declared it was her right to carry out Plante's wish that his ashes be "scattered to the four winds".

DRUMS OF DEATH FOR U-BOATS

These containers, jokingly referred to as "ash cans," are actually depth charges being manufactured in a British munitions factory for use in warfare against U-boats. When dropped into the sea they explode with such force that any submarine within 300 feet of the charge is doomed because its flimsy plates cave in. Pictured above are two women workers soldering still-empty containers. Bottom picture is a store of the charges ready for transfer to the navy

BALLERINA TASTES AMERICAN COFFEE FOR FIRST TIME

(International News Service)

LONDON—Lipishinskaya, foremost ballerina, of the Bolshoi theatre, Moscow, today is enjoying her first cup of American coffee.

An American newspaperman and his wife, who were leaving Russia, decided to send her a present in appreciation of the pleasure they had received in watching her dance.

Flowers were superfluous because she received huge bouquets of them every night. So they decided on something unusual, something impossible to obtain in Russia.

And, judging from her note of thanks, they think they made the right selection.

SCHOOL OF FUTURE MAY UTILIZE BOTH RADIO AND FILMS

(International News Service)

CHICAGO—If training being given prospective teachers at the National College of Education, is any indication, the schoolhouse of the future will be part broadcasting studio, part motion picture theatre and part concert hall.

Students at the college, are receiving training in the use of radio microphones, sound motion pictures projectors and films and phonograph records to dramatize classroom work.

Miss Edna Dean Baker president of the college, commented.

"We consider audio-visual equipment and a knowledge of its use to be as important in training the modern teacher as books, and other published material.

"It is inevitable that the scientific advances of the last decade will be turned to the service of education and teachers must be prepared to make use of them."

Arts-Crafts Show Planned For City

Lions Today Announce Exhibit Will Open Downtown May 20

New Castle's Lions club will sponsor an "Arts and Crafts Exhibit" for the city's little-known "one-man industries" during the week of May 20.

Not a hobby show, the proposed exhibit will be a display "of articles and devices of all kinds and sorts" made locally, particularly, but not necessarily, by individuals on their own premises."

The East Washington street storeroom formerly occupied by the Ehrlich clothing firm has been reserved for the week, Paul A. Dingledy, chairman of the Lions committee in charge announced today.

In The Castleton Thursday, Dingledy and an 18-man committee set the planning machinery in motion.

Dingledy explained the show this way:

"The purpose is to give every man and or woman in town an opportunity to show the public what he or she is capable of making. Exhibits will be carefully studied for possible commercial development. The project, we think, is a logical follow-up to the recent Pioneer Week celebration. Our 'modern pioneers' can show their ingenuity and ability."

All exhibitors, too, will compete for cash prizes, Dingledy said. Further announcement will explain these awards.

Admission to the exhibit will be free to the public. Entry can be made through formal entry blanks which will appear later in The News.

With the primary elections over it now becomes necessary to have the returns counted officially and the official return board started today. On the board are Mrs. Joseph Brooks, Thomas F. Maher, Sr., Margaret W. Lynch and C. A. Cleaveland.

The board does not go into the ballot boxes except in case of an error. It is really an auditing board which audits the return sheets, sees that the ballots cast are accounted for and that the proper number of blank ballots are left over. Usually there is some reason for calling in one or two ballot boxes to determine what the right score should be.

The board will work in the new room which fronts on McCready Way.

The case of Frank J. Wells against the County of Lawrence went to the jury Thursday afternoon. The case is one in which Mr. Wells claims damages for damage to his farm in Big Beaver township due to a road improvement. This is the second trial, a former verdict being set aside and a new trial granted.

In the case of Celia Saylor and Cale Saylor against Norman and Mildred Alborn, a verdict for the defendant was given which means that no damages were assessed. The plaintiffs are from Youngstown and claim that on November 24, 1938 their car was struck from the rear by the defendants in Tarentum, Pa. The claim was for $25,000.

Before Judge W. Walter Braham in court room number one the case of Walter Leehaven against Carl Majors for damages was taken up. This is a case in which the plaintiff lost an ear in a fight in Ellwood City early in January. A criminal prosecution convicted Majors of assault and battery.

Scouts Aiding In Collection Of Old Papers

Civic Club Workers Covering District This Afternoon In Campaign

Boy Scouts are today aiding members of the Seventh Ward Civic club in collecting old papers and magazines, being solicited to obtain funds for the club.

This afternoon and early tonight the collection of old paper is to be made. The paper collected will be hauled to a storeroom where it will be baled and sold.

A fine opportunity is afforded in this campaign, for the people of the district to get rid of all accumulated papers and magazines at their home. Any person desiring to donate such material should tie it in bundles and place it on their front porch today.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

An automobile from California was noticed in the Seventh Ward this week, bearing new 1940 license plates. The plates were odd in shape, insofar as they were rounded at the corners.

Mahoning avenue railroad crossing was repaired Thursday, and the many holes and ruts filled with amesite surfacing.

Boy Scouts in Troop 4 are finding the Mahoning school a fine place to meet each week. The boys gather in the school gymnasium for their meetings.

There are very few gardens started in this district as yet. Both high water and cold weather have prevented farmers from working their land and getting seed planted.

One of the few city farmers to do any gardening yet this year is Charles E. Dun of Newell avenue. Mr. Dungan prides himself on being one of the first persons to have ripe tomatoes in the district.

Two Women Claim Ashes Of Deceased Los Angeles Man

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—Just a week after his death, two women who had been wives of Joseph H. Plante, local business man, were engaged in a strange court battle today.

They both claimed his ashes. One of them, Mrs. Elizabeth Plante, filed a suit to prevent a cemetery from delivering the ashes to Mrs. Pearl C. Plante, whom Plant married last June.

Mrs. Elizabeth Plante contended that the divorce Plante obtained from her in Nevada was not valid, since he had not lived in that state for the required six weeks.

She declared it was her right to carry out Plante's wish that his ashes be "scattered to the four winds".

FAVORITE DRINKS

LONDON—The favorite drinks of the British armed forces, as noted by a bartender at a famous London hotel are: Navy, Pink, Plymouth (gin and bitters); Army: whisky and soda or beer; Air force: Rye highball (Rye whiskey and ginger ale) Of cocktails those with a gin basis are preferred by all three services, the bartenders said.

DRUMS OF DEATH FOR U-BOATS

These containers, jokingly referred to as "ash cans," are actually depth charges being manufactured in a British munitions factory for use in warfare against U-boats. When dropped into the sea they explode with such force that any submarine within 300 feet of the charge is doomed because its flimsy plates cave in. Pictured above are two women workers soldering still-empty containers. Bottom picture is a store of the charges ready for transfer to the navy

BALLERINA TASTES AMERICAN COFFEE FOR FIRST TIME

(International News Service)

LONDON—Lipishinskaya, foremost most ballerina, of the Bolshoi theatre, Moscow, today is enjoying her first cup of American coffee.

An American newspaperman and his wife, who were leaving Russia, decided to send her a present in appreciation of the pleasure they had received in watching her dance.

Flowers were superfluous because she received huge bouquets of them every night. So they decided on something unusual, something impossible to obtain in Russia.

And, judging from her note of thanks, they think they made the right selection.

At 4:35 o'clock Thursday afternoon firemen were called to the home of Nick Ambrose, 420 Waldo street, by an alarm from box 56, where a small fire was found. A loss of around $25 was reported.

SCHOOL OF FUTURE MAY UTILIZE BOTH RADIO AND FILMS

(International News Service)

CHICAGO—If training being given prospective teachers at the National College of Education, is any indication, the schoolhouse of the future will be part broadcasting studio, part motion picture theatre and part concert hall.

Students at the college, are receiving training in the use of radio microphones, sound motion pictures projectors and films and phonograph records to dramatize classroom work.

Miss Edna Dean Baker, president of the college, commented:

"We consider audio-visual equipment and a knowledge of its use to be as important in training the modern teacher as books, and other published material.

"It is inevitable that the scientific advances of the last decade will be turned to the service of education and teachers must be prepared to make use of them."

State Political Circles Turn To Fall Campaign

Both Parties To Start Preliminaries Looking To Presidential Campaign

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 26.—With the primary election past, thoughts in state political circles turned today to the all-important presidential campaign which is due to get under way shortly.

The Republican and Democratic state committees will start the ball rolling with their biennial meetings, the Republicans meeting at Philadelphia on May 11 and the Democrats expected to meet at Harrisburg on a date yet to be chosen. The Democratic meeting must be held no later than May 22.

To Name New Chairman

With Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence retiring from office at the expiration of his term next month, the Democrats will be faced with the necessity of selecting a new chairman. With U. S. Sen. Joseph F. Guffey controlling the committee, thanks to his impressive victory in Tuesday's primary where he was nominated for re-election over the opposition of Lawrence, Guffey adherents are expected to be selected for all the key points.

Indications are that Luther A. Harr, Philadelphia city treasurer, and Guffey campaign manager, will be the next Democratic state chairman unless he declines to accept. At the Republican committee meeting, G.O.P. State Chairman James F. Torrance is due for reelection.

Democratic Reorganization

Due to the defeat of the Lawrence forces, the Democratic committee faces a complete reorganization. In addition to the election of a state chairman the committee will select two national committeemen and an executive committee.

Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, sister of Senator Guffey, is expected to be re-named as national committeewoman and may also be selected as vice chairman of the state committee to succeed Mrs. Edith B. DeWitt, of Williamsport.

It is quite possible that Senator Guffey may be the committee's choice for national committeeman to succeed former Gov. George H. Earle, who resigned upon his appointment as U. S. Minister to Bulgaria.

(International News Service)

BOSTON—New England's rookie soldier is just over 21 years old, a good five feet eight inches tall and weighs 140 pounds.

That is the composite of 2,330 new recruits from New England enlisted into the Army during a 10-weeks' nationwide drive which added 50,000 men to Uncle Sam's military strength, bringing the total number to 227,000, according to Major General James A. Woodruff, commanding general of the First Corps area.

Medical charts revealed the men were in better physical condition thans those of World War days, but army officials emphasized that a fair comparison could not be made between the voluntary enlistments of today and the 2,000,000 men who were drafted for World War service.

Two Automobiles And Convoy In Road Accident

Two automobiles and a convoy were involved in a motor vehicle crash at 7:45 a. m. today, seven miles west of New Castle on Route 224, according to the State Motor police.

The operator of the convoy, J. R. Cunningham, 4467 Cicotte avenue, Detroit, was arrested by State Motor police, taken before Squire H. M. Reynolds, Union township, and fined $10.00 for reckless driving.

According to the police, Terry W. Carson, 117 Fairfield avenue, city, was driving toward Hillsville. Jacob Klish, 1026 Court street, city, was driving toward New Castle. The convoy also was being driven toward New Castle.

There were WPA employes along the highway. Carson stopped his car. Klish slowed down. The convoy tried to get between the two cars and another truck which was on the road and sideswiped the cars driven by Carson and Klish, and was arrested, the police report.

The investigation was made by Motor Policeman Poloskey.

Believe Man Who Stole Auto Has Badly Cut Hand

State Motor police of this city today were trying to locate a man with a badly cut hand.

They have reason to believe that a man who stole an auto from the Hebley & Francis garage, 454 East Washington street, Wedesday night, cut his hand sometime during the theft or when the car was wrecked in Union township.

The motor police would like to learn if any physician here treated a person for a badly gashed hand during the past 24 hours. Through such information they hope to solve the car theft, they stated today.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

An automobile from California was noticed in the Seventh Ward this week, bearing new 1940 license plates. The plates were odd in shape, insofar as they were rounded at the corners.

Mahoning avenue railroad crossing was repaired Thursday, and the many holes and ruts filled with amesite surfacing.

Boy Scouts in Troop 4 are finding the Mahoning school a fine place to meet each week. The boys gather in the school gymnasium for their meetings.

There are very few gardens started in this district as yet. Both high water and cold weather have prevented farmers from working their land and getting seed planted.

One of the few city farmers to do any gardening yet this year is Charles E. Dun of Newell avenue. Mr. Dungan prides himself on being one of the first persons to have ripe tomatoes in the district.

SHEEP SHEARING CONTEST

Seventy-five dollars in premiums is being offered by the County Wool Growers Association of Northwestern Pennsylvania for the contest this year. This year's contest will be held Tuesday, April 30, beginning at 1 p. m. at Hilltop Stables, near Oil City, in Venango County.

P. C. Mackenzie, superintendent of livestock at State College, will be judge for the contest. Contestants will be scored on the basis of quality of work, handling of the sheep and shears, number of cuts, speed, and the condition of the fleece when completed. Only 15 per cent of the total is based upon speed.

The contest is open to anyone in the counties of Northwestern Pennsylvania, in which Lawrence is included. Anyone interested in entering the contest should notify C. F. Hunsberger, Post Office box 468, in Franklin, not later than noon, April 27.

PRECAUTIONS AID TREE PLANTING OPERATIONS

There are several precautions in planting forest trees which contribute to a successful stand and greater satisfaction to the planter.

If the ground is furrowed in advance of planting, be sure that the furrows are not too deep and that they are kept on the level.

Even short slopes in the furrows may cause water to run in sufficient volume to wash out trees. When the slope of the land changes, slopes in the furrows may be avoided by plowing a number of short furrows. Throwing back pieces of sod into long furrows at frequent intervals also will help control washing.

Half the success of planting trees depends on the condition of the trees before they go into the ground.

There are three suggestions which should be followed. Get the trees out of shipping containers as soon as received. Cut open bundles and "heel in" the trees in moist ground. Puddle the roots of trees before planting.

CONTROL OF VEGETABLE INSECTS IS POSSIBLE

It is not too early to prepare for the annual fight against vegetable garden insects.

Often the attacks of these insects is so severe that the production of vegetables of fine quality is impossible. In such cases, control measures must be practiced. The protection of the vegetables even when grown on a small scale is not difficult. The secret of success is in knowing what to do.

Clean farming is recognized as an effective means of reducing insect damage to farm crops. It provides a means of preventing losses by making the area unsuited to the development of certain insect pests. Cleaning up rubbish in the field or garden and destroying by burning or composting is helpful. Another advisable practice is cleaning out neglected fields, hedges or fence rows. Crop rotations help on control.

Vigorous root development and leaf growth promoted by proper fertilization and thorough cultivation permit plants moderately infested with insects to overcome injury.

Where insecticides are to be used identification of the insects and knowing what measures to employ are necessary for economical control. Extension Circular 122, "Insects Attacking Vegetables," gives the answers to questions on the subject. It is available at the Agricultural Extension office.

PROPERLY TREATED COVER CROPS AID FRUIT YIELD

Erosion and continuous cultivation have been succeeded in many Pennsylvania orchards by the growth of cover crops. Results of an extension demonstration in Adams County tell the story of what can be expected from different fertilizer treatments in yields of cover crops and fruit.

In all treatments the amount of nitrogen was three pounds per tree so that the differences were accounted for by the phosphorus and potash applied. Rye and vetch were used as the cover crops.

With nitrate of soda alone the cover crops grew 12½ inches high and produced 2½ tons an acre. The yield of cherries was 127 pounds per tree.

A 5-6-5 fertilizer resulted in a cover crop 27 inches high producing 4.75 tons to the acre. The yield of cherries was 141.3 pounds per tree.

Where 10-6-4 fertilizer was used the cover crops grew 27.5 inches tall and produced 3.95 tons per acre. The tree yield of cherries was 133 pounds.

Nitrate of soda supplemented with 200 pounds of superphosphate gave a 31-inch growth and 6.03-ton production of the cover crop per acre and a yield of 149.2 pounds of cherries per tree.

The demonstration resulted in a gain of 5.85 tons of green matter per acre with which the soil fertility could be maintained and an increase of yield per tree of 31.6 pounds of cherries and a financial return of 63.2 cents a tree or $63.20 an acre.

CONTROL OAT SMUT TO PREVENT LOSS

The worst enemy of the oats crop in Pennsylvania is smut. It reduces the yield of oats in fields planted with untreated seed by about two or three bushels an acre.

Destructiveness of smut can be more easily realized when it is known that if all the smutted heads were separated out by themselves, for every eight acres of oats grown in Pennsylvania one acre would be growing only plants in which all the oat grains had been replaced with smut.

Seed treatment costing about four cents an acre eliminates smut and prevents loss from this disease. An extension circular on the subject can be obtained at the Agricultural Extension office.

HOME SEWING VERSUS READY-MADE GARMENTS

Counters of crisp cottons, soft silks, and colorful rayons greet Mrs. Shopper when she visits the yard goods department. Maybe she's saying to herself, "I could make a dress for Sally out of that lovely red and white print, or that luscious blue silk would be grand for Mary. But guess I'll see what I can find in ready-made dresses before I buy anything."

Many of us are in the same situation as Mrs. Shopper. Should we buy or make children's clothing? Should we make shirts for the men and boys? Should it be home-made aprons and cottons?

Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative, Lawrence County, gives an inkling to the problem when she says, "The amount of home sewing we should do depends upon our skill, time, health, and income."

A recent study made of 897 persons in 219 rural and urban families throws more light on home sewing versus ready-made garments. As revealed by the study, the largest part of home sewing, or two-thirds of it, was done for the women, girls, and small boys. Two-thirds of the girls under 12 years of age had sewing done for them at home.

The garments studied were: Cotton, wool, and part-wool dresses; aprons, cotton slips, bloomers or panties, and sleeping garments. Home sewing of cotton dresses showed the highest saving, 64 per cent. Wool or part wool dresses were next with a saving of 61 per cent. Sleeping garments made at home showed a saving of 49 per cent.

Other savings noted were: Cotton slips 47 per cent; aprons 39 per cent; bloomers and panties only 30 per cent. This tends to show that if you are buying any of these garments ready-made, perhaps aprons and panties would be the wisest choice.

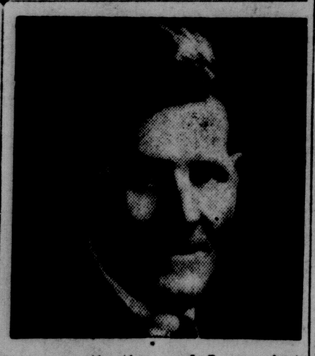

Miss Markle believes that unless you can afford to buy a very good ready-made slips, it will pay you to make slips, using guaranteed material of high thread count and making twice turned seams. In a recent test of ready-made slips worn by over 500 women, it was found that it cost $4.72 a year to wear 47-cent slips; $3.64 a year to wear 69-cent slips; and only $1.84 a year when a well-made slip with a double seam and material of high thread count was purchased. The least expensive slip withstood only 13 washings and needed 39 repairs, mainly because of the unraveling of raw edges or pulling at the seams.

From these two studies, it would seem that the wisest course is a combination of ready-made and garments made at home. Buy a well-tailored coat and a well-cut basic dress and make changes of accessories, Miss Markle points out. Make cotton dresses, sleeping garments, and as many clothes for the children a you have time to make.

If you do not like to sew, or do not have time, do not struggle along trying to sew, she reminds. It is best to buy almost everything and spend time remodeling, repairing, and changing accessories.

PAINS ALL GONE; GAINS 11 LBS. TAKING RETONGA

Lifelong Pittsburgh Resident Was Almost At End of Row After Eight Years Suffering. Feels Like New Man, He States.

From all over this section comes heartfelt praise for the sensational new herbal medicine Retonga as well-known men and women report remarkable recoveries from long-standing troubles through its use. Typical of many grateful statements is that of Mr. James Fullerton, 611 Suffolk St., expert electrotyper and lifelong resident of Pittsburgh, who declared:

"Acid indigestion and gas bloating were so bad I sometimes thought I had heart trouble. My bladder got me up all through the night, and almost every night my legs cramped until I had to get up and walk the floor. My left foot seemed to stay swollen. I guess my whole system was saturated with toxic poisons from constipation and I was just about past going when I started on Retonga. Now if I have a trouble left I don't know it. I eat anything without trouble and I've regained eleven pounds; my bowels act normally and every pain and cramp is gone. I sleep fine all night without getting up and I feel like a brand new man. The people of Pittsburgh can take my word for it; Retonga does everything they say it will."

Retonga may be obtained at Eckerd's Drug Store.

Spicy Divorce Case Is Ending In London Court

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 26. — London's spicest divorce case in many months appeared headed for a swift conclusion today when, at the opening session of the second day of the trial, Lady Dorothy Campbell withdrew her cross-petition for divorce against Sir Malcolm Campbell, British speed king.

The trial opened before Justice Hodson yesterday, but after only a morning session, taking of testimony was adjourned when Lady Dorothy reportedly suffered a nervous collapse.

Her ladyship was present in the courtroom this morning, accompanied by a nurse. At the opening of the session, her counsel announced that Lady Dorothy wished to withdraw her cross-petition, in which she accused Sir Malcolm of indiscretions with a Mrs. Atherton. Sir Malcolm denied any wrong doing.

The trial continued on Sir Malcolm's allegations, and it is possible the case may be completed before tonight.

State Political Circles Turn To Fall Campaign

Both Parties To Start Preliminaries Looking To Presidential Campaign

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 26.—With the primary election past, thoughts in state political circles turned today to the all-important presidential campaign which is due to get under way shortly.

The Republican and Democratic state committees will start the ball rolling with their biennial meetings, the Republicans meeting at Philadelphia on May 11 and the Democrats expected to meet at Harrisburg on a date yet to be chosen. The Democratic meeting must be held no later than May 22.

To Name New Chairman

With Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence retiring from office at the expiration of his term next month, the Democrats will be faced with the necessity of selecting a new chairman. With U. S. Sen. Joseph F. Guffey controlling the committee, thanks to his impressive victory in Tuesday's primary where he was nominated for re-election over the opposition of Lawrence, Guffey adherents are expected to be selected for all the key points.

Indications are that Luther A. Harr, Philadelphia city treasurer, and Guffey campaign manager, will be the next Democratic state chairman unless he declines to accept. At the Republican committee meeting, G.O.P. State Chairman James F. Torrance is due for reelection.

Democratic Reorganization

Due to the defeat of the Lawrence forces, the Democratic committee faces a complete reorganization. In addition to the election of a state chairman the committee will select two national committeemen and an executive committee.

Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, sister of Senator Guffey, is expected to be re-named as national committeewoman and may also be selected as vice chairman of the state committee to succeed Mrs. Edith B. DeWitt, of Williamsport.

It is quite possible that Senator Guffey may be the committee's choice for national committeeman to succeed former Gov. George H. Earle, who resigned upon his appointment as U. S. Minister to Bulgaria.

That is the composite of 2,330 new recruits from New England enlisted into the Army during a 10-weeks' nationwide drive which added 50,000 men to Uncle Sam's military strength, bringing the total number to 227,000, according to Major General James A. Woodruff, commanding general of the First Corps area.

Medical charts revealed the men were in better physical condition thans those of World War days, but army officials emphasized that a fair comparison could not be made between the voluntary enlistments of today and the 2,000,000 men who were drafted for World War service.

BIG FRENCH LINER IS READY TO SAIL FOR PART IN WAR

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 26.—A sudden outburst of activity at the Staten Island pier at which the French liner Ile De France is docked today revived reports that the 43,450-ton liner is preparing to sail for war duty. Some quarters predicted she may sail within 48 hours.

NO HOT DOGS FOR G. O. P. CONVENTION

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The lowly hot dog, which came into its own when President Roosevelt introduced it to the King and Queen of England at Hyde Park last summer, got the cold shoulder today from Republicans in charge of arrangements for the G.O.P. National Convention, opening in Philadelphia on June 24.

There will be no frankfurters sold on the floor of Convention Hall during the sessions and speakers thus will not have to compete with vendors' shrill voices, said Walter E. Alessandroni, Citizens' Committee secretary.

"It isn't dignified," he explained.

SHEEP SHEARING CONTEST

Seventy-five dollars in premiums is being offered by the County Wool Growers Association of Northwestern Pennsylvania for the contest this year. This year's contest will be held Tuesday, April 30, beginning at 1 p. m. at Hilltop Stables, near Oil City, in Venango County.

P. C. Mackenzie, superintendent of livestock at State College, will be judge for the contest. Contestants will be scored on the basis of quality of work, handling of the sheep and shears, number of cuts, speed, and the condition of the fleece when completed. Only 15 per cent of the total is based upon speed.

The contest is open to anyone in the counties of Northwestern Pennsylvania, in which Lawrence is included. Anyone interested in entering the contest should notify C. F. Hunsberger, Post Office box 468, in Franklin, not later than noon, April 27.

PRECAUTIONS AID TREE PLANTING OPERATIONS

There are several precautions in planting forest trees which contribute to a successful stand and greater satisfaction to the planter.

If the ground is furrowed in advance of planting, be sure that the furrows are not too deep and that they are kept on the level.

Even short slopes in the furrows may cause water to run in sufficient volume to wash out trees. When the slope of the land changes, slopes in the furrows may be avoided by plowing a number of short furrows. Throwing back pieces of sod into long furrows at frequent intervals also will help control washing.

Half the success of planting trees depends on the condtion of the trees before they go into the ground.

There are three suggestions which should be followed. Get the trees out of shipping containers as soon as received. Cut open bundles and "heel in" the trees in moist ground. Puddle the roots of trees before planting.

CONTROL OF VEGETABLE INSECTS IS POSSIBLE

It is not too early to prepare for the annual fight against vegetable garden insects.

Often the attacks of these insects is so severe that the production of vegetables of fine quality is impossible. In such cases, control measures must be practiced. The protection of the vegetables even when grown on a small scale is not difficult. The secret of success is in knowing what to do.

Clean farming is recognized as an effective means of reducing insect damage to farm crops. It provides a means of preventing losses by making the area unsuited to the development of certain insect pests. Cleaning up rubbish in the field or garden and destroying by burning or composting is helpful. Another advisable practice is cleaning out neglected fields, hedges or fence rows. Crop rotations help on control.

Vigorous root development and leaf growth promoted by proper fertilization and thorough cultivation permit plants moderately infested with insects to overcome injury.

Where insecticides are to be used identification of the insects and knowing what measures to employ are necessary for economical control. Extension Circular 122, "Insects Attacking Vegetables," gives the answers to questions on the subject. It is available at the Agricultural Extension office.

PROPERLY TREATED COVER CROPS AID FRUIT YIELD

Erosion and continuous cultivation have been succeeded in many Pennsylvania orchards by the growth of cover crops. Results of an extension demonstration in Adams County tell the story of what can be expected from different fertilizer treatments in yields of cover crops and fruit.

In all treatments the amount of nitrogen was three pounds per tree so that the differences were accounted for by the phosphorus and potash applied. Rye and vetch were used as the cover crops.

With nitrate of soda alone the cover crops grew 12½ inches high and produced 2½ tons an acre. The yield of cherries was 127 pounds per tree.

A 5-6-5 fertilizer resulted in a cover crop 27 inches high producing 4.75 tons to the acre. The yield of cherries was 141.3 pounds per tree.

Where 10-6-4 fertilizer was used the cover crops grew 27.5 inches tall and produced 3.95 tons per acre. The tree yield of cherries was 133 pounds.

Nitrate of soda supplemented with 200 pounds of superphosphate gave a 31-inch growth and 6.03-ton production of the cover crop per acre and a yield of 149.2 pounds of cherries per tree.

The demonstration resulted in a gain of 5.85 tons of green matter per acre with which the soil fertility could be maintained and an increase of yield per tree of 31.6 pounds of cherries and a financial return of 63.2 cents a tree or $63.20 an acre.

CONTROL OAT SMUT TO PREVENT LOSS

The worst enemy of the oats crop in Pennsylvania is smut. It reduces the yield of oats in fields planted with untreated seed by about two or three bushels an acre.

Destructiveness of smut can be more easily realized when it is known that if all the smutted heads were separated out by themselves, for every eight acres of oats grown in Pennsylvania one acre would be growing only plants in which all the oat grains had been replaced with smut.

Seed treatment costing about four cents an acre eliminates smut and prevents loss from this disease. An extension circular on the subject can be obtained at the Agricultural Extension office.

HOME SEWING VERSUS READY-MADE GARMENTS

Counters of crisp cottons, soft silks, and colorful rayons greet Mrs. Shopper when she visits the yard goods department. Maybe she's saying to herself, "I could make a dress for Sally out of that lovely red and white print, or that luscious blue silk would be grand for Mary. But guess I'll see what I can find in ready-made dresses before I buy anything."

Many of us are in the same situation as Mrs. Shopper. Should we buy or make children's clothing? Should we make shirts for the men and boys? Should it be home-made aprons and cottons?

Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative, Lawrence County, gives an inkling to the problem when she says, "The amount of home sewing we should do depends upon our skill, time, health, and income."

A recent study made of 897 persons in 219 rural and urban families throws more light on home sewing versus ready-made garments. As revealed by the study, the largest part of home sewing, or two-thirds of it, was done for the women, girls, and small boys. Two-thirds of the girls under 12 years of age had sewing done for them at home.

The garments studied were: Cotton, wool, and part-wool dresses; aprons, cotton slips, bloomers or panties, and sleeping garments. Home sewing of cotton dresses showed the highest saving, 64 per cent. Wool or part wool dresses were next with a saving of 61 per cent. Sleeping garments made at home showed a saving of 49 per cent.

Other savings noted were: Cotton slips 47 per cent; aprons 39 per cent; bloomers and panties only 30 per cent. This tends to show that if you are buying any of these garments ready-made, perhaps aprons and panties would be the wisest choice.

Miss Markle believes that unless you can afford to buy a very good ready-made slips, it will pay you to make slips, using guaranteed material of high thread count and making twice turned seams. In a recent test of ready-made slips worn by over 500 women, it was found that it cost $4.72 a year to wear 47-cent slips; $3.64 a year to wear 69-cent slips; and only $1.84 a year when a well-made slip with a double seam and material of high thread count was purchased. The least expensive slip withstood only 13 washings and needed 39 repairs, mainly because of the unraveling of raw edges or pulling at the seams.

From these two studies, it would seem that the wisest course is a combination of ready-made and garments made at home. Buy a well-tailored coat and a well-cut basic dress and make changes of accessories, Miss Markle points out. Make cotton dresses, sleeping garments, and as many clothes for the children a you have time to make.

If you do not like to sew, or do not have time, do not struggle along trying to sew, she reminds. It is best to buy almost everything and spend time remodeling, repairing, and changing accessories.

PAINS ALL GONE; GAINS 11 LBS. TAKING RETONGA

Lifelong Pittsburgh Resident Was Almost At End of Row After Eight Years Suffering. Feels Like New Man, He States.

From all over this section comes heartfelt praise for the sensational new herbal medicine Retonga as well-known men and women report remarkable recoveries from long-standing troubles through its use. Typical of many grateful statements is that of Mr. James Fullerton, 611 Suffolk St., expert electrotyper and lifelong resident of Pittsburgh, who declared:

"Acid indigestion and gas bloating were so bad I sometimes thought I had heart trouble. My bladder got me up all through the night, and almost every night my legs cramped until I had to get up and walk the floor. My left foot seemed to stay swollen. I guess my whole system was saturated with toxic poisons from constipation and I was just about past going when I started on Retonga. Now if I have a trouble left I don't know it. I eat anything without trouble and I've regained eleven pounds; my bowels act normally and every pain and cramp is gone. I sleep fine all night without getting up and I feel like a brand new man. The people of Pittsburgh can take my word for it; Retonga does everything they say it will."

Retonga may be obtained at Eckerd's Drug Store.

Spicy Divorce Case Is Ending In London Court

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 26. — London's spicest divorce case in many months appeared headed for a swift conclusion today when, at the opening session of the second day of the trial, Lady Dorothy Campbell withdrew her cross-petition for divorce against Sir Malcolm Campbell, British speed king.

The trial opened before Justice Hodson yesterday, but after only a morning session, taking of testimony was adjourned when Lady Dorothy reportedly suffered a nervous collapse.

Her ladyship was present in the courtroom this morning, accompanied by a nurse. At the opening of the session, her counsel announced that Lady Dorothy wished to withdraw her cross-petition, in which she accused Sir Malcolm of indiscretions with a Mrs. Atherton. Sir Malcolm denied any wrong doing.

The trial continued on Sir Malcolm's allegations, and it is possible the case may be completed before tonight.

"From today it will be found that German bombers in Norway are not wholly immune from counter-action by British fighters."

According to a Reuters dispatch, the Norwegian headquarters somewhere in Norway also stated in a communique:

"On April 24 the Germans, supported by artillery and light tanks, attacked positions in southern Gubrandsdalen.

NO HOT DOGS FOR G. O. P. CONVENTION

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The lowly hot dog, which came into its own when President Roosevelt introduced it to the King and Queen of England at Hyde Park last summer, got the cold shoulder today from Republicans in charge of arrangements for the G.O.P. National Convention, opening in Philadelphia on June 24.

There will be no frankfurters sold on the floor of Convention Hall during the sessions and speakers thus will not have to compete with vendors' shrill voices, said Walter E. Alessandroni, Citizens' Committee secretary.

"It isn't dignified," he explained.

Farm Electrification Results Are Shown At Moose Farm Thursday

What can be done by farm electrification was shown to a group of visitors, making an inspection of the electrically squipped farm of R. N. Moose and Son, Volant, R. D. 3, on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Moose said that electrification of the farm had largely improved its economic value, and decreased the work to be done on it. The farm is the first electrical experimental and demonstration farm, privately owned in Pennsylvania. It was electrically equipped in June, 1939.

During an inspection tour by newspaper and farm journal representatives, and officials of the Pennsylvania Power company, which provides the current, the operating methods and results were explained by Mr Moose, Thursday.

According to Mr. Moose, production has increased at lower cost than formerly. Installation of the electrical equipment also eliminated a large part of the drudgery of farm work.

The farm is mainly devoted to dairy and poultry production.

Those who inspected the first rural electrification experimental farm are: M. C. Gilpin, editor, Pennsylvania Farmer; J. D. Shatto, editor, Sharon Herald; J. E. Rinesmith, publisher, Zelienople News-Beacon; H. D. Burns, publisher, New Wilmington Globe; Melvin Blair, business manager, Greenville Record-Argus; L. H. Cornwell, Beaver Falls Tribune; W. J. Hitchins, Ellwood City Ledger; Edward H. Fritz, New Castle News; Professor R. V. Blasingame, in charge of the department of agricultural engineering, State college; L. B. Round, vice president and general manager; Rufus Moses, and officials from the Pennsylvania Power company as follows: L. B. Round, vice president and general manager; Rufus Moses, division manager, Sharon; F. A. Conner, manager, Greenville division; W. E. Gross, in charge of rural electrification, New Castle division; J. F. Thomas, division representative, Zelienople, and Paul L. Dingledy, assistant to Vice President Round.

R. N. Moose, farm owner, conducted the inspection tour.

Following the inspection, Mrs. Moose served an excellent chicken dinner to the visitors.

According to a Reuters dispatch, the Norwegian headquarters somewhere in Norway also stated in a communique:

"On April 24 the Germans, supported by artillery and light tanks, attacked positions in southern Gubrandsdalen.

Seek Cause For Airplane Crash

Government Inspectors Fly To New Castle Airport From Long Island, N. Y.

Two Civil Aeronautics Authority inspectors made a flying visit to the New Castle airport, for the purpose of making an investigation to determine the cause for the airplane crash that hospitalized Robert G. Love and Donald Johnson, last Saturday.

R. C. Payton, member of the C. A. A. Safety Board and Merrill Molthrop, of the U. S. Fortestry Service, were the inspectors. They flew here from Garden City, Long Island, N. Y., in 2 hours and 50 minutes, in a sleek Waco Cabin plane powered by a 330 horsepower engine.

The inspectors viewed the wrecked plane, interviewed the occupants and the local pilots who were on hand shortly after the crash.

Large Delegation At Sharon Meeting

Former New Castle Teacher Speaks At Spring Missionary Meeting In Sharon Church

Epworth Methodist church, New Castle, with 30 delegates, had the largest representation at the spring meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Grove City district, held in Oakland avenue Methodist church, Sharon, all day Thursday.

Following registration and reports of secretaries at the morning session, there was an interesting address by Mrs. Anna J. Lewis, about the 70th anniversary of the society held in Pasadena, Calif., recently.

At the afternoon session, a speaker was Miss Gertrude Hanks of Lima, Peru, who chose as her subject "Women, Here and There". She gave a word portrait of the three classes of womanhood in Peru. Miss Hanks, a fogrmer teacher at New Castle high school, is now principal of Lima high school for girls. She told, also, of the organization of the World Federation of Methodist Women at Pasadena, the constitution of which was signed by representatives of 23 nations.

Miss Martha Robinson, a missionary from North Africa, home on furlough, told of the work of her station in Algeria. She expects to return to Algeria the latter part of August if transportation can be arranged.

It was announced that the summer school of missions will be held from July 7-14 at Westminster college, New Wilmington.

Artillery Duels On Western Front

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 26.—Spasmodic artillery duels in the Saar area of the western front were reported today, with the French gaining the advantage by breaking up German working parties constructing breastworks.

These duels were announced in the war communique, which stated merely: "Artillery actions in the region of the Saar river."

Reports from Paris said that the Germans tried to ambush a French corps in the Vosges region but in turn fell into a trap and were decimated before they could retreat, leaving losses behind.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

HARRISBURG, April 26.—The nomination of F. Clair Ross as the Democratic candidate for auditor general brings the present state treasurer to still higher political ambition. Friends of the popular western Pennsylvanian believe that if Ross can hurdle successfully the November election he will place himself in line for a chance at the 1942 Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Ross, a good speaker, managed the gubernatorial campaign of Thomas L. Kennedy in 1938 when Senator Joseph F. Guffey joined with the C. I. O. in an effort to defeat Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence and the organization ticket. Although known as a Guffey aide, Ross this time hewed a neutral position so well that both warring factions gave him their support. Ross will be opposed in the fall election by State Senator Frederick T. Gelder of Forest City, the Republican nominee.

Reports in Dauphin county courthouse circles are that Earl V. Compton, special assistant to District Attorney Carl B. Shelley, will eventually be rewarded with a judgeship for his work in handling the prosecution of Democratic officials. This may be done through a gubernatorial appointment, when one warrants, or through a place on the party ticket, it is said.

Under the law both the Republican and state committees must meet within the next 30 days to reorganize, now that the primaries are out of the way. Indications are that Republican State Chairman James Torrance will be elected for another term. The Democratic situation is not as clear.

The job mobilization campaign, now in its final stages, will be partially taken over by some state department, probably the commerce department, upon its demise. The best features of the program will be incorporated into the department's regular work. Job mobilization leaders claim to have filled approximately 25,000 jobs since the start of the campaign around November 1.

Physical laborers composed the largest single group of job-seekers listed in the files of the state employment service, a survey of job applicants for last November reveals. Skilled craftsmen were in second place.

Validation by the U. S. supreme court of Pennsylvania's law banning from the state highways convoys, familiarly known as the car-over-cab law, apparently brings to a close a long fight concerning the oversized transportation vehicles. The effective date of the law was postponed on several occasions through senate amendments as owners of the convoys fought in the courts to invalidate the measure.

After a year of occupancy of the executive mansion, Governor James burns with the same ambition which moved many of his predecessors in office. He is determined to bequeath to his successors a new mansion.

Farm Electrification Results Are Shown At Moose Farm Thursday

What can be done by farm electrification was shown to a group of visitors, making an inspection of the electrically squipped farm of R. N. Moose and Son, Volant, R. D. 3, on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Moose said that electrification of the farm had largely improved its economic value, and decreased the work to be done on it. The farm is the first electrical experimental and demonstration farm, privately owned in Pennsylvania. It was electrically equipped in June, 1939.

During an inspection tour by newspaper and farm journal representatives, and officials of the Pennsylvania Power company, which provides the current, the operating methods and results were explained by Mr Moose, Thursday.

According to Mr. Moose, production has increased at lower cost than formerly. Installation of the electrical equipment also elimnated a large part of the drudgery of farm work.

The farm is mainly devoted to dairy and poultry production.

Those who inspected the first rural electrification experimental farm are: M. C. Gilpin, editor, Pennsylvania Farmer; J. D. Shatto, editor, Sharon Herald; J. E. Rinesmith, publisher, Zelienople News-Beacon; H. D. Burns, publisher, New Wilmington Globe; Melvin Blair, business manager, Greenville Record-Argus; L. H. Cornwell, Beaver Falls Tribune; W. J. Hitchins, Ellwood City Ledger; Edward H. Fritz, New Castle News; Professor R. V. Blasingame, in charge of the department of agricultural engineering, State college; L. B. Round, vice president and general manager; Rufus Moses, and officials from the Pennsylvania Power company as follows: L. B. Round, vice president and general manager; Rufus Moses, division manager, Sharon; F. A. Conner, manager, Greenville division; W. E. Gross, in charge of rural electrification, New Castle division; J. F. Thomas, division representative, Zelienople, and Paul L. Dingledy, assistant to Vice President Round.

R. N. Moose, farm owner, conducted the inspection tour.

JURY SELECTED FROM AUDIENCE

ELLWOOD CITY, April 26.—"Not Guilty" was the verdict of the jury in the trial of Karen Andre charged with the murder of Bjorn Faulkner, industrial king, whom the state asserted she had killed because he had forsaken her to marry another woman.

The case was "The Night of January 16" presented as a comedy-drama by the senior high school class last evening at the Lincoln auditorium in the presence of a fair-sized audience.

In order to escape to South America with Karen and a fortune in stockholder's money, the defense attempted to show that Faulkner had faked his suicide. In the closing scene of the play, Larry Reagan, a gangster, who for his love for Karen had aided in the fake suicide, dramatically rushes to the platform and declares that Faulkner is dead. He then punctures the state's case as he tells how John Whitefield, father of Faulkner's wife, had murdered Faulkner after he learned through his secretary, Sigurd Jungquist, of his plan to escape.

Select Jury

With the jury being selected from the audience and the witnesses entering the court scene from the assemblage, the presentation was different; however, it seemed much too mature for the youthful actors. Convincing characters portrayals by Della Appolino, negro janitress; Lloyd Koach, policeman; Sophia Risko, housekeeper; and John Junior Caughey, Faulkner's secretary, proved to be "a shot in the arm" in relieving the monotony of the parade of witnesses.

Jack Green, as defense attorney, and Bob Grant, as district attorney, did creditably well in portraying their difficult roles. Pretty Joan Tinker as Karen Andre, was much too sweet and innocent looking to impress the audience as a murderess.

Every one of the characters knew their lines and parts to perfection, and the timing was exact, showing weeks of preparation under the direction of Miss Elizabeth McKnight, who has directed many of the past school play successes.

The stage set designed by Ralph Stewart and built by the stage crew, Harold Caplain, supervisor, Bill Clark, Harold Osborne, Bill Markus, Kenneth Thompson, Jim Vesco and Raymond Best was a fine reproduction of a court room.

The entire performance will be repeated tonight when a larger audience is expected judging from the reserved seat sale.

SHE'S NO G-Man but . . .

"Operator, I've got to reach my brother. He's driving to Los Angeles in a green 1936 sedan and he ought to be somewhere west of the Mississippi by now. Do you think you can find him?"

"Operator, I've lost my glasses and can't read the directory. Can you help me make a call?"

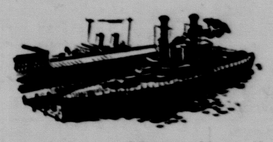

"Get the doctor quick! My Mommy's sick!"

"Operator, please listen carefully—I've got to whisper. There's a burglar downstairs in my living room! Send the police right away. The address is . . ."

"There's been an accident here! Send an ambulance . . ."

"Can you help me? My son is a sailor on the battleship Wyoming. I must talk with him right away. But I don't know where his ship is now.."

"I want to talk to Otto Stralenski. He's somewhere in Chicago. I don't know his address, but it's very important that I reach him. He's a saxophone player."

Our job is to handle the millions of ordinary calls that Pennsylvanians make every day—and to keep them clicking along smoothly and quickly. That in itself is a mighty big job, requiring a big organization. Of course, sometimes we find it possible to track down missing persons on meager clues. It just happens that our operators managed to put through every one of the above calls and to supply the help that was needed.

We hope we'll never be too big nor too busy to listen to an unusual problem . . . and to help you out with a little extra service when we can.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

HARRISBURG, April 26.—The nomination of F. Clair Ross as the Democratic candidate for auditor general brings the present state treasurer to still higher political ambition. Friends of the popular western Pennsylvanian believe that if Ross can hurdle successfully the November election he will place himself in line for a chance at the 1942 Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Ross, a good speaker, managed the gubernatorial campaign of Thomas L. Kennedy in 1938 when Senator Joseph F. Guffey joined with the C. I. O. in an effort to defeat Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence and the organization ticket. Although known as a Guffey aide, Ross this time hewed a neutral position so well that both warring factions gave him their support. Ross will be opposed in the fall election by State Senator Frederick T. Gelder of Forest City, the Republican nominee.

Reports in Dauphin county courthouse circles are that Earl V. Compton, special assistant to District Attorney Carl B. Shelley, will eventually be rewarded with a judgeship for his work in handling the prosecution of Democratic officials. This may be done through a gubernatorial appointment, when one warrants, or through a place on the party ticket, it is said.

Under the law both the Republican and state committees must meet within the next 30 days to reorganize, now that the primaries are out of the way. Indications are that Republican State Chairman James Torrance will be elected for another term. The Democratic situation is not as clear.

The job mobilization campaign, now in its final stages, will be partially taken over by some state department, probably the commerce department, upon its demise. The best features of the program will be incorporated into the department's regular work. Job mobilization leaders claim to have filled approximately 25,000 jobs since the start of the campaign around November 1.

Physical laborers composed the largest single group of job-seekers listed in the files of the state employment service, a survey of job applicants for last November reveals. Skilled craftsmen were in second place.

Validation by the U. S. supreme court of Pennsylvania's law banning from the state highways convoys, familiarly known as the car-over-cab law, apparently brings to a close a long fight concerning the oversized transportation vehicles. The effective date of the law was postponed on several occasions through senate amendments as owners of the convoys fought in the courts to invalidate the measure.

After a year of occupancy of the executive mansion, Governor James burns with the same ambition which moved many of his predecessors in office. He is determined to bequeath to his successors a new mansion.

Isaiah Comforts An Afflicted People

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 28 is Isaiah 40, the Golden Text being Psalm 46:1, "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.")

The prophets of the Old Testament came from all walks of life. Micah, as we saw last week, was a simple countryman. Isaiah on the other hand, was an aristocrat and a city man, living in Jerusalem. His father's name was Amoz. He was the court preacher and exerted a great deal of influence all through his years of prophecy, until paganizing influences came into power, when tradition says he was martyred.

Isaiah is called the greatest of the prophets. His career is thought to have extended from about 740 to 701 B. C. The part of Isaiah which is contained in our lesson is thought by some not to be this prophet's and is attributed to an "unknown prophet." It is very beautiful nevertheless, and must have comforted his afflicted fellow countrymen even as millions today are helped by the marvelous promises.

"Comfort ye, comfort ye My people," saith your God. Isaiah's name is symbolic of his message, for it means "Jehovah saves" or "Jehovah is salvation." He is called the St. Paul of the Old Testament. He hated and denounced in no uncertain terms the wickedness of the day—fraud, oppression, dishonesty, idolatry, apostasy. He was bold and earnest.

Prophesies Coming of John

The fortieth chapter of Isaiah is a prophecy of the coming of John the Baptist and promises that the people of Israel at last will triumph over their enemies.

"The voice of one that crieth, Prepare ye in the wilderness the way of Jehovah; make level in the desert a highway for our God.

"Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low; and the uneven shall be made level, and the rough places plain.

"And the glory of Jehovah shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together; for the mouth of Jehovah hath spoken it."

The reference to the forerunner or "one" that crieth Prepare," was understood by the Orientals, for during thousands of years, when a potentate announced that he would travel over a certain highway, men were sent to that place to remove all obstacles to comfortable travel, to level the high places and remove rocks, perhaps to widen a road when a part of it had been made dangerous by a landslide so that the royal personage might in be danger of slipping off down a precipice.

Isaiah also reminds his people of the impermanence of man in these beautiful words.

"The voice of one saying, Cry. And one said. What shall I cry? All flesh is grass and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field.

"The grass withereth, the flowers fadeth, but the word of our God shall stand forever."

That surely is comfort for these troublesome times. Men who rule unjustly, who are tryannous and persecute their fellows shall pass, for "the grass withereth, the flower fadeth," and so do they in a short time, but the word of our God—and His righteousness—shall stand forever."

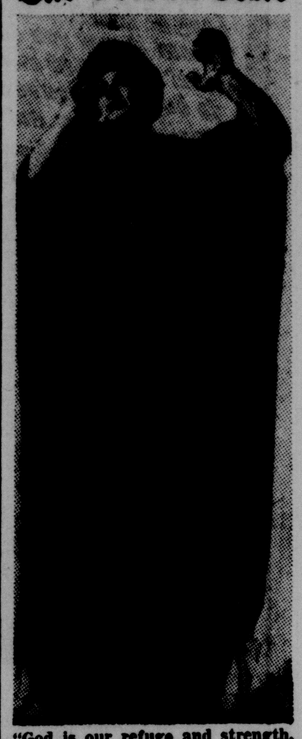

And he goes on: "Behold, the Lord Jehovah will come as a mighty one, and His arm will rule for Him: Behold His reward is with Him, and His recompense before Him.

"He will feed his Flock, like a shepherd. He will gather the lambs in His arm, and carry them in His bosom, and will gently lead those that have their young."

The same thought is carried further on in the chapter. "Behold, the nations are as a drop in the bucket, and are counted as the small dust of the balance: behold He taketh up the isles as a very little thing."

"To whom then will ye liken God?" Isaiah asks. He tells of the workmen who melts a graven image, covering it with gold and trimming it with silver chains, but this image should not be worshipped. It will bring no comfort.

The Golden Text

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." —Ps. 46:1.

"Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of His understanding.

"He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might He increaseth strength.

"Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall:

"But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength: they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint."

Truly, Isaiah "comforteth his people," and all those who will rely on these promises."

Senior Class Presents Play

JURY SELECTED FROM AUDIENCE

ELLWOOD CITY, April 26.—"Not Guilty" was the verdict of the jury in the trial of Karen Andre charged with the murder of Bjorn Faulkner, industrial king, whom the state asserted she had killed because he had forsaken her to marry another woman.

The case was "The Night of January 16" presented as a comedy-drama by the senior high school class last evening at the Lincoln auditorium in the presence of a fair-sized audience.

In order to escape to South America with Karen and a fortune in stockholder's money, the defense attempted to show that Faulkner had faked his suicide. In the closing scene of the play, Larry Reagan, a gangster, who for his love for Karen had aided in the fake suicide, dramatically rushes to the platform and declares that Faulkner is dead. He then punctures the state's case as he tells how John Whitefield, father of Faulkner's wife, had murdered Faulkner after he learned through his secretary, Sigurd Jungquist, of his plan to escape.

Select Jury

With the jury being selected from the audience and the witnesses entering the court scene from the assemblage, the presentation was different; however, it seemed much too mature for the youthful actors. Convincing characters portrayals by Della Appolino, negro janitress; Lloyd Koach, policeman; Sophia Risko, housekeeper; and John Junior Caughey, Faulkner's secretary, proved to be "a shot in the arm" in relieving the monotony of the parade of witnesses.

Jack Green as defense attorney, and Bob Grant, as district attorney, did creditably well in portraying their difficult roles. Pretty Joan Tinker as Karen Andre, was much too sweet and innocent looking to impress the audience as a murderess.

Every one of the characters knew their lines and parts to perfection, and the timing was exact, showing weeks of preparation under the direction of Miss Elizabeth McKnight, who has directed many of the past school play successes.

The stage set designed by Ralph Stewart and built by the stage crew, Harold Caplain, supervisor, Bill Clark, Harold Osborne, Bill Markus, Kenneth Thompson, Jim Vesco and Raymond Best was a fine reproduction of a court room.

The entire performance will be repeated tonight when a larger audience is expected judging from the reserved seat sale.

WHERE TRAGIC FIRE TOOK LIVES OF MANY NEGROES

Here is an exterior view of the dance hall at Natchez, Miss., where a fire took the lives of 198 Negroes dancing to the music of a Chicago orchestra. Moss and other decorations in the dance hall ignited quickly and made the building a raging inferno.

SHE'S NO G-Man but . . .

"Operator, I've got to reach my brother. He's driving to Los Angeles in a green 1936 sedan and he ought to be somewhere west of the Mississippi by now. Do you think you can find him?"

"Operator, I've lost my glasses and can't read the directory. Can you help me make a call?"

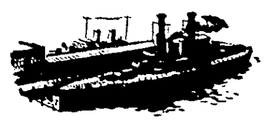

"Get the doctor quick! My Mommy's sick!"

"Operator, please listen carefully—I've got to whisper. There's a burglar downstairs in my living room! Send the police right away. The address is . . ."

"There's been an accident here! Send an ambulance . . ."

"Can you help me? My son is a sailor on the battleship Wyoming. I must talk with him right away. But I don't know where his ship is now.."

"I want to talk to Otto Stralenski. He's somewhere in Chicago. I don't know his address, but it's very important that I reach him. He's a saxophone player."

Our job is to handle the millions of ordinary calls that Pennsylvanians make every day—and to keep them clicking along smoothly and quickly. That in itself is a mighty big job, requiring a big organization. Of course, sometimes we find it possible to track down missing persons on meager clues. It just happens that our operators managed to put through every one of the above calls and to supply the help that was needed.

We hope we'll never be too big nor too busy to listen to an unusual problem . . . and to help you out with a little extra service when we can.

A telephone is a helpful thing. No home should be without one.

SPRING

We are now in the middle of the safest time of the year—spring. Safety of life and limb is one of the attributes of this beautiful time of year that the poets have overlooked. Probably no one ever brought it to the attention of a poet, and that is why it has been neglected in ode and sonnet.

I didn't realize it myself until the other day when I studied an analysis of accidents in the United States. I haven't the figures for Canada, but I assume that they are pretty much the same.

March, April and May have fewer deaths by accident than any other time of the year. I can guess at some of the many reasons for this. Fires have been allowed to go out in stoves and furnaces, so deaths from fires and asphyxiation drop. Motor cars aren't out in the numbers they will be later in the summer, and those that are out, haven't the hazards of snow and ice to cope with. And so on.

All this makes us feel very good. Accidents are down: life is safer than it was in the winter; than it will be this summer. Yet, every day of this so-called "safe" time of the year, 250 people will be killed accidentally in the United States.

I do not know exactly what percentage of this figure will be children but I know in my heart that it is far too great a proportion. Surely we can do something to reduce these accidents to adults and children alike.

In the case of children, however it is we adults who are most responsible. This is the time of year when children who have been shut in all winter, begin to run out into the streets if they aren't watched. Last fall they were too small, perhaps to go scurrying across the pavements. And they are too young to know the risk they are running.

I know that a lot can be accomplished with children by telling them and showing them again and again of the dangers that lurk in the streets. But even this is forgotten in the excitement of play. So it is up to use to see that they are protected in other ways. We know that we can't keep children off the streets all the time. That would be a physical impossibility, even if we wanted to do it. So, it is up to the motorists to forget all the rules of driving that give him the right of way, and see to it that no life is lost because he is careless.

Spring is the time for cleaning. It is the time to move out a lot of junk that has been lying around all winter and which has constituted a considerable hazard.

I think spring is also the time for use to clear a lot of junk out of our minds. It is the time for us to check up on our daily fixed habits to see if perhaps they themselves have not come to present a hazard. It is a good time of year to remember and learn the safe ways of life that should be followed the year around.

We are attempting something like this at the nursery here at Callander where the Quintuplets live. Of course, they have quite a few falls, and minor accidents in their play. We are trying now to analyze each accident to show them how it happened so they will be more careful in the future.

YES sir, something pretty special happens when you turn the ignition switch, and drive away for the first time in your very own 1940 Buick.

In that little act, you get a years-long jump on the other fellow. You step out in a car that is not only 1940's biggest news but the pattern for many a season to come.

Style? Just look the others over and see how they mirror the trend Buick began a good twelve months ago!

Size? Just try to find a car as long as Buick, bumper to bumper, for the same money—or one with a frame as husky and rigid.

Comfort? Performance? Appointments?

No one else on the highway has soft, gentle coil springs all around that never need lubrication, with the steady rolling firmness of torque-tube drive.

No one else gives you a gas-thrifty Dynaflash valve-in-head straight-eight engine, much less a power plant electro-balanced after assembly.

No one else has a Two-Way Direction Signal with automatic cut-off—or standard equipment so complete that even a lock for the gas tank is included in the price.

The Buick SPECIAL 4-door touring sedan $996

And with the whole range of Buick's six dozen 1940 features you'll be No. 1 in the automotive hit parade, leading the way in a car that will still be full of big news many a season hence.

You'll be driving a Buick, staunch and solid in its tested metal, fashioned with Buick craftsmen's skill, a car you can count on to keep its value, lose mighty little through either use or depreciation.

And the price? Unbelievable as it sounds, the Buick SPECIAL carries a price lower than some sixes—which spells "buy" in any man's language. Why not learn more from the nearest Buick dealer?

Prices begin at $895 for Business Coupe—Sedan prices start at $955—

*delivered at Flint, Mich. Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

When the city of New Castle accepted a gift of 120 acres, which now is Cunningham park, there was owed to the county in taxes for 1932, the amount of $236.02. Not long ago the county treasurer said the land would be sold unless the city pays, because the city knew at the time, it was said in council today that the county tax had not been paid. Solicitor William Cobau today told the council the lien was good. However, he suggested the county commissioners be requested to exonerate the taxes due. Council will make the request, it was reported in council meeting in city hall Thursday.

Isaiah Comforts An Afflicted People

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 28 is Isaiah 40, the Golden Text being Psalm 46:1, "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.")

The prophets of the Old Testament came from all walks of life. Micah, as we saw last week, was a simple countryman. Isaiah on the other hand, was an aristocrat and a city man, living in Jerusalem. His father's name was Amoz. He was the court preacher and exerted a great deal of influence all through his years of prophecy, until paganizing influences came into power, when tradition says he was martyred.

Isaiah is called the greatest of the prophets. His career is thought to have extended from about 740 to 701 B. C. The part of Isaiah which is contained in our lesson is thought by some not to be this prophet's and is attributed to an "unknown prophet." It is very beautiful nevertheless, and must have comforted his afflicted fellow countrymen even as millions today are helped by the marvelous promises.

"Comfort ye, comfort ye My people," saith your God. Isaiah's name is symbolic of his message, for it means "Jehovah saves" or "Jehovah is salvation." He is called the St. Paul of the Old Testament. He hated and denounced in no uncertain terms the wickedness of the day—fraud, oppression, dishonesty, idolatry, apostasy. He was bold and earnest.

Prophesies Coming of John

The fortieth chapter of Isaiah is a prophecy of the coming of John the Baptist and promises that the people of Israel at last will triumph over their enemies.

"The voice of one that crieth, Prepare ye in the wilderness the way of Jehovah; make level in the desert a highway for our God.

"Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low; and the uneven shall be made level, and the rough places plain.

"And the glory of Jehovah shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together; for the mouth of Jehovah hath spoken it."

The reference to the forerunner or "one" that crieth Prepare," was understood by the Orientals, for during thousands of years, when a potentate announced that he would travel over a certain highway, men were sent to that place to remove all obstacles to comfortable travel, to level the high places and remove rocks, perhaps to widen a road when a part of it had been made dangerous by a landslide so that the royal personage might in be danger of slipping off down a precipice.

Isaiah also reminds his people of the impermanence of man in these beautiful words.

"The voice of one saying, Cry. And one said, What shall I cry? All flesh is grass and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field.

"The grass withereth, the flowers fadeth, but the word of our God shall stand forever."

That surely is comfort for these troublesome times. Men who rule unjustly, who are tryannous and persecute their fellows shall pass, for "the grass withereth, the flower fadeth," and so do they in a short time, but the word of our God—and His righteousness—shall stand forever."

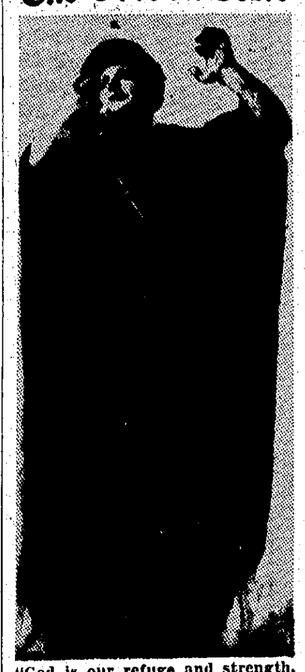

And he goes on: "Behold, the Lord Jehovah will come as a mighty one, and His arm will rule for Him: Behold His reward is with Him, and His recompense before Him.

"He will feed his Flock, like a shepherd. He will gather the lambs in His arm, and carry them in His bosom, and will gently lead those that have their young."

The same thought is carried further on in the chapter. "Behold, the nations are as a drop in the bucket, and are counted as the small dust of the balance: behold He taketh up the isles as a very little thing."

"To whom then will ye liken God?" Isaiah asks. He tells of the workmen who melts a graven image, covering it with gold and trimming it with silver chains, but this image should not be worshipped. It will bring no comfort.

The Golden Text

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble."—Ps. 46:1.

"Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of His understanding.

"He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might He increaseth strength.

"Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall:

"But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength: they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint."

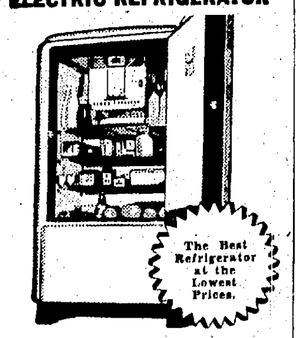

Truly, Isaiah "comforteth his people," and all those who will rely on these promises."

Union Athletes Honored At Fete

CLOSE TO 200 IN ATTENDANCE

Union Township High's football-basketball players were honored guests at the third testimonial banquet in the school gymnasium, on Thursday evening.

The occasion, sponsored by the Union Township P.T.A., set a new high for banquets. Close to 200 persons gathered to honor the athletes.

Hess Main Speaker

C. W. Herman Hess, who is active in fraternal circles, was the main speaker. He delivered an inspiring talk. In an interesting manner, Mr. Hess presented a parallel between athletics and life. Athletics teach important lessons useful in later life and stress the importance of cooperation, Hess pointed out.

Jay G. Rudolph, supervising principal of Union schools, expressed his appreciation for the cooperation received by coaches, participants and others active in Union athletics.

Musical selections were presented by:

Joe Pietrowicz, Carrie, Leona and Wilma Heckart, Noreen Buchanan and Wilda Montgomery and Walter Severa. Leroy Rowley led group singing.

Awards Presented

Jackets were awarded to the following young men:

Don Summerson, Joe Smith, Stanley Sniezek, Stanley Plonka, Walter Severa, Clyde McGarry, Leon Tabisz, Mike Covelli, Wendell Morris, Joe Chiafullo, Henry Mateja, Louis Montabon and Norm O'Laughlin.

Relay Carnival Starting Today In Philadelphia

Annual Penn Relays Brings Thousands Of Thin Clads To Try For New Records

NEW HAMER THROW IS POSSIBILITY

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The Penn relay carnival which for 46 years has been the incubator, the inspiration and the backbone of track athletics in this country, will be held here today and tomorrow.

If you have never seen one of these relay carnivals it's hard to make you realize what it's like, but if you can imagine some 3,000 athletes, from more than 500 prep and high schools, colleges and universities, competing in one stadium, you can form a fair mental picture of it.

Many a world champion and record smasher ran his first race in these carnivals and world champions and record holders are competing in this one.

Records, if any, will depend largely on track and weather conditions, but if the weather man behaves himself Chuck Fenske, the mile king, and Al Blozis, Georgetown's phenomenal shot putter and discus thrower, may set new figures—if not world marks, then surely new carnival marks.

May Set Hammer Mark

And Matt Flaherty, a virtually unknown sophomore from New Hampshire university, probably will set a new American record for the hammer throw.

However, these and other specialists are only the frosting on the cake. The main thing is the cake itself—the relays.

Starting at 2 o'clock this afternoon and continuing all day long tomorrow, these events will be run off with clock-like regularity.

Sometimes they have 50 starters in one event with the boys lined up across the full width of the quarter mile track in double and, yes, even triple rows.

And it's something to see with the boys jostling and running and occasionally dropping all over the track.

Twenty-eight of the 76 events on the program are down for decision today. This doesn't mean, however, that there will be only 28 races, far from it, for some of these events will consist of a dozen heats, each one a stirring event in itself.

Sports World Ramblings

Local niblets: Slippery Rock College's varsity track squad includes the names of four local athletes. Tom Carey, the ex-Hurricane football-basketball player, is tossing the discus; George Loudon heaves the javelin and shut put; G. Stitzinger jumps the hurdles while Leo Lenheer is also a discuss pegger. Lenheer's name isn't familiar to the local sports gentry. . . .

"Like father like son", an old axiom, applies to the Jerry family. Frank Jerry, the noted marathoner, covered a lot of earth in various foot derbies. Don, a son, is holding up his daddy's end. In the recent New Castle High cinder burning carnival, Don busted the tape first in the mile run, scooting around in 5 minutes and 10 seconds. Don, incidentally, is also a footballer. . . .

A track fan brings to light the name of Earl Hammond, ex-Washington High product. The writer says: "The little red headed sophomore burned up the cinders, taking four first places in the inter-class high meet. He copped medals by winning the high jump, low hurdles, 100 yard dash and the 220-yard dash. He was one of the fastest backfield men at Washington. I am always glad to watch a promising athlete."

Diamond scribblings—Baseball is a strange sport these cold, rainy days. Last year, the Athletics thumped the Yanks four times. In the first week, the Mackmen spilled the Yorkers twice. . . . Kirby Higbe, now with the Phils, and Hugh Casey, of Brooklyn, were let loose by the Cubs, not too long ago. Today, the two are easily worth $100,000. . . .

Vallie Eaves, White Sox flinger, is an Indian. . . . Managers use various formulas in the hope of helping the stick work of one of their proteges. Casey Stengel, observing that Maxie West was too tense at the platter, suggested that West whistle a tune while at bat. Today, West is one of the longest distance swatters in the National. In '39, he homered at least once in every N. L. orchard. . . .

During spring training sessions, Joe McCarthy did not permit one of his Yankee pitchers to go the full route. . . . "Chubby" Dean will be 24 years old in August. . . . At least 50 players, who saw action in the minor leagues in 1939, are listed on rosters of American League teams. . . . The Boston Red Sox spilled the Yanks 11 times in 19 games in 1939. . . . Cleveland and the Red Sox wound up the '39 season even stephen, ten wins and ten losses apiece. . . .

Dean Muzzles Hustling Reds, Pirates Upset

Dizzy Dean Gives Cincinnati Five Hits In 4-2 Win, Derringer Loser

CARDINALS HAND DEFEAT TO PIRATES

By ED KIELY
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 26.—Just when they are about to put Dizzy Dean, with his ailing arm, in baseball's bone yard, old vitamin I himself does something besides talking to earn his $10,000 yearly salary.

Today the talkative Chicago Cub pitcher was back in the good graces of Manager Gabby Hartnett, because of the "great one's" masterful work on the mound against the Cincinnati Reds.

Minus his high, hard one, Diz used his noodle more than his arm to send the Reds down to their first defeat with a five-hit, 4 to 2 victory. The Cubs collected 11 hits to help Dean win, and thereby handed Cincinnati's ace, big Paul Derringer, his first defeat.

Meanwhile the Brooklyn Dodgers ran their winning streak to five straight by taking the measure of the lowly Philadelphia Phillies, 3 to 1. Hugh Casey, with his five-hit twirling, and Dolf Camilli, with his homer, were big factors in helping the Flatbushers move into undisputed possession of first place in the National league.

Bill Terry's New York Giants finally came to life with an 11-hit game to wallop the Bees, 9-1. Bill Lohrman struck out nine Bostonian batsmen and Burgess Whitehead pitched in with a three-run homer.

Cards Nose Pirates

In Pittsburgh, St. Louis needed 22 hits to edge out the Pirates, 10 to 9. Manager Frankie Frisch's rejuvenated Buccanneers fell short with a ninth inning rally, the tying run being nipped at the plate on a close play.

In the American league, Bobby Feller scored his second victory as Cleveland downed the Chicago White Sox, 3-1. Edgar Smith, who opposed the speed king when he pitched his opening day no-hitter, was the victim again yesterday, although he allowed only seven safeties to Feller's eight. Rollie Hemsley and Jeff Heath contributed home runs to Cleveland's cause.

Elsewhere, Detroit submerged the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 2. Buck Newsom spun off a five-hitter and Pinky Higgins won the game with a homer with a mate on in the eighth. In Washington, the Senators put on a garrison finish, pushing across six runs after two were out in the ninth, to whip the Athletics, 7 to 6. Rain kept New York and Boston idle.

Others called on were—Dean M R. Kelso, Professor Gilbert Taylor, and Ross Ellis, business manager of the college.

Athletes Get Awards

As listed in the Wednesday issue of The News the athletes were given letters and various awards as the concluding feature of the banquet Retiring captain Mel Miller gave out the basketball awards.

The banquet was numbered among the finest that has ever been held at Westminster and will live long in the minds of those present. The following sports were represented—footfall, basketball, swimming, tennis, cross-country and golf.

SPRING

We are now in the middle of the safest time of the year—spring. Safety of life and limb is one of the attributes of this beautiful time of year that the poets have overlooked. Probably no one ever brought it to the attention of a poet, and that is why it has been neglected in ode and sonnet.

I didn't realize it myself until the other day when I studied an analysis of accidents in the United States. I haven't the figures for Canada, but I assume that they are pretty much the same.

March, April and May have fewer deaths by accident than any other time of the year. I can guess at some of the many reasons for this. Fires have been allowed to go out in stoves and furnaces, so deaths from fires and asphyxiation drop. Motor cars aren't out in the numbers they will be later in the summer, and those that are out, haven't the hazards of snow and ice to cope with. And so on.

All this makes us feel very good. Accidents are down: life is safer than it was in the winter; than it will be this summer. Yet, every day of this so-called "safe" time of the year, 250 people will be killed accidentally in the United States.

I do not know exactly what percentage of this figure will be children but I know in my heart that it is far too great a proportion. Surely we can do something to reduce these accidents to adults and children alike.

In the case of children, however it is we adults who are most responsible. This is the time of year when children who have been shut in all winter, begin to run out into the streets if they aren't watched. Last fall they were too small, perhaps to go scurrying across the pavements. And they are too young to know the risk they are running.

I know that a lot can be accomplished with children by telling them and showing them again and again of the dangers that lurk in the streets. But even this is forgotten in the excitement of play. So it is up to use to see that they are protected in other ways. We know that we can't keep children off the streets all the time. That would be a physical impossibility, even if we wanted to do it. So, it is up to the motorists to forget all the rules of driving that give him the right of way, and see to it that no life is lost because he is careless.

Spring is the time for cleaning. It is the time to move out a lot of junk that has been lying around all winter and which has constituted a considerable hazard.

I think spring is also the time for use to clear a lot of junk out of our minds. It is the time for us to check up on our daily fixed habits to see if perhaps they themselves have not come to present a hazard. It is a good time of year to remember and learn the safe ways of life that should be followed the year around.

We are attempting something like this at the nursery here at Callander where the Quintuplets live. Of course, they have quite a few falls, and minor accidents in their play. We are trying now to analyze each accident to show them how it happened so they will be more careful in the future.

The armory is being renovated and put in spic and span order for the big day, which will be the biggest ever in New Castle, as far as the presence of military dignitaries is concerned.

Friday evening, much drill preparations by Troop K, will be made, in reference to the parade.

Captain Mitchell reports that the drill checks are in for payment to troopers who have complied with the order for turning in their extra equipment. It is the desire of the mess committee, that troop members who are indebted to that organization, bring cash to liquidate their accounts.

WOMEN DONATE WOOLENS

(International News Service)

LONDON—Large quantities of woolens are being received by the Navy from American women. The knitters are mostly New York and Washington women. Seventy per cent of the articles are admitted duty free.

YES sir, something pretty special happens when you turn the ignition switch, and drive away for the first time in your very own 1940 Buick.

In that little act, you get a years-long jump on the other fellow. You step out in a car that is not only 1940's biggest news but the pattern for many a season to come.

Style? Just look the others over and see how they mirror the trend Buick began a good twelve months ago!

Size? Just try to find a car as long as Buick, bumper to bumper, for the same money—or one with a frame as husky and rigid.

Comfort? Performance? Appointments?

No one else on the highway has soft, gentle coil springs all around that never need lubrication, with the steady rolling firmness of torque-tube drive.

No one else gives you a gas-thrifty Dynaflash valve-in-head straight-eight engine, much less a power plant electro-balanced after assembly.

No one else has a Two-Way Direction Signal with automatic cut-off—or standard equipment so complete that even a lock for the gas tank is included in the price.

The Buick SPECIAL 4-door touring sedan $996★

And with the whole range of Buick's six dozen 1940 features you'll be No. 1 in the automotive hit parade, leading the way in a car that will still be full of big news many a season hence.

You'll be driving a Buick, staunch and solid in its tested metal, fashioned with Buick craftsmen's skill, a car you can count on to keep its value, lose mighty little through either use or depreciation.

And the price? Unbelievable as it sounds, the Buick SPECIAL carries a price lower than some sixes—which spells "buy" in any man's language. Why not learn more from the nearest Buick dealer?

Prices begin at $895 for Business Coupe—Sedan prices start at $955—

★delivered at Flint, Mich. Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

CITY WILL ASK FOR EXONERATION OF TAX

When the city of New Castle accepted a gift of 120 acres, which now is Cunningham park, there was owed to the county in taxes for 1932, the amount of $236.02. Not long ago the county treasurer said the land would be sold unless the city pays, because the city knew at the time, it was said in council today that the county tax had not been paid. Solicitor William Cobau today told the council the lien was good. However, he suggested the county commissioners be requested to exonerate the taxes due. Council will make the request, it was reported in council meeting in city hall Thursday.

Makes Complaint About Storm Water

Attorney J. Elder Bryan, counsel for Paul Marrangoni, Addis street and Jackson avenue Thursday, complained that as a result of the big storm sewer built on the east side, water which had been gathered into the sewer now was flowing over Marrangoni's property.

He said that previously there had been a natural water course through the property but the volume was not so large because water had drained away in the ground before reaching the property.

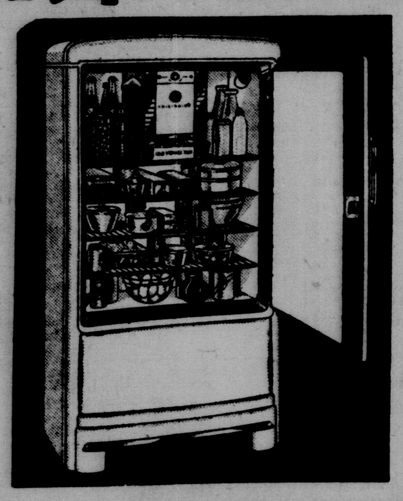

Council will view the property, they decided in meeting in city hall Thursday.

Bankers Hear College Head

President Galbreath Of Westminster Addresses Bankers Last Night

EDUCATION TREND GIVEN IN SPEECH

Praise—warm praise—for the quality work of America's fast-fading "little red schoolhouse" last night was voiced by Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, president of the Westminster college, in an address before the Lawrence County Banker's Association in The Castleton.

He told the county group that, while it sounds something like heresy, he wonders sometimes today about the quality of the education furnished students under the nation's modern and highly-systematized educational set-up.

Dr. Galbreath's scholarly message was enjoyed throughout. He discussed, among other things, the extent to which he thinks government should extend its hand over business—enough to properly regulate and supervise, but not too far.

T. L. Ashcom, New Wilmington, vice president of the bankers organization, presented the Westminster president to the audience. James A. Taylor, this city, president of the group presided.

In late May, President Taylor said the association will convene for a special meeting to hear Edward J. Michael, federal secret service operative at Pittsburgh and former personal bodyguard to President Roosevelt, tell about counterfeit money and the government's steps to combat it.

Hit-Run Driver Leaves Boy To Die

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—A hit-run driver believed responsible for the death of a 13-year-old hitch-hiker near Stoystown, Somerset county, was sought by State police today after they had identified the victim as Kenneth Putt, of Dudley, near Huntingdon, Pa.

A sister from DuQuesne, near Pittsburgh, established the identity of the youth. She expressed belief that he had been hitch-hiking to her home for a visit when he was struck by the automobile. Coroner F. E. Sass, of Somerset county, termed the death the "most brutal" in his experience.

Sass said the boy apparently had been knocked unconscious in the accident and that the frightened motorist had thrown his body under an empty summer cabin about two miles from Stoystown. The youth revived sufficiently to roll out in the open where his body was found.

A trail of blood from the Lincoln highway to the cabin marked the motorist's action. The coroner said young Putt died of shock and exposure, explaining that the cuts and bruises on the body would not necessarily have been fatal.

UNIQUE MACHINE IS PERFECTED FOR TESTING OF WOOL

(International News Service)

BOSTON.—In the interests of more accurate calculation of wool fibre as differentiated from dirt, burrs, sand and other impurities, the United States Treasury Department has perfected a machine that picks wool from the bale and samples it for an appraisal of the quality.

The machine, which was 2½ years in th emaking, includes a steel tube with razor blades that penetrate the bale and cut out a sample. The sample is put through a laboratory test in the machine, and within a 20-second period the wool is dry cleaned, scoured, rinsed, dried and conditioned, ready for an appraisal.

After cleaning the wool, the solvents used in the process are dried, recovered and refined for additional use.

STUNT ARTIST IS NOW RECOGNIZED AS GREAT PAINTER

(International News Service)

FREDERIC, Wis.—A. M. Brown, long recognized as a stunt artist, now may add recognition, as a leading American painter to his list of accomplishments.

Brown has long been known as the artist who can paint two pictures, simultaneously, blindfolded, while carrying on an unrelated conversation. His greatest accomplishment in the "freak" painting line is to do one of his pictures upside down.

His work in more legitimate lines of art, however, has won him recognition from Devoe & Reynolds, of Newark, N. J., a firm making an education film of leading American artists.

So for his legitimate work, Brown will be filmed along with Thomas Benton, James Montgomery Flagg, Leopold Seyffert and other top notch American artists in a movie designed for widespread distribution in American art centers and schools.

Home Remedies Are Given Laugh By Medical Men

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Ill., April 26—A list of beliefs to be ashamed of was compiled today by the education committee of the Illinois state medical society.

The committee surveyed the field of home remedies and pooh-poohed the following beliefs:

A coin in the lip or a cold key in the back will stop a nosebleed.

A potato in the pocket prevents rheumatism in the legs.

Frogs cause warts.

Whisky antidotes snake poison.

A pinch of nutmeg in the pocket prevents stomach ache.

Fish and milk cannot be eaten together.

Said the committee:

"All wrong. These beliefs are picturesque, but they just aren't, so."

Arrest "Key Man" In Bond Racket At Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—Frank Haney, 35, hunted for several days as one of the "key men" in a $100,000 phoney bail bond racket was arrested today and taken to District Attorney Andrew T. Park's office for questioning.

Park said Haney had been a "bond fixer" although he put up only a few bonds himself. Two city sub-patrolmen picked up the man for questioning as they were enroute to police school.

The district attorney's investigation of fake bond cases, in which forged county tax statements, faked assessment certificates allegedly were used, already has resulted in suspension of two district attorney's employes and arrest of other men.

Haney was being held on a district attorney's detainer. This week Park ordered the arrest of 18 bondsmen and 63 defendants in criminal cases allegedly involved in the fake bonding racket.

Smear Campaign Is Being Planned

Such Is Charge Against New Dealers By G. O. P. National Committeeman

(International News Service)

INDIANAPOLIS, April 26. — Charging that New Dealers "have undertaken the old technique of smearing," a Republican national committee official declared today that the 1940 presidential campaign "may become one of the nastiest in recent years."

The official, Franklyn Waltman, director of the Republican national committee's publicity bureau, said that "the New Deal's smear tactics seems to indicate a pretty ruthless and dirty fight in this year's campaign."

Waltman, speaking before the Indiana Republican Editors Association, alleged that "the New Deal has no more morals than a tom cat." He added:

"Be assured that each smear directed at the Republican party and at Republicans will be answered.

"Some of us have become weary of the holier-than-thou attitude of New Dealers whose own actions, by age-old standards, might be classed as odorous if not actually smelly."

In another portion of his speech, Waltman declared:

"The other night President Roosevelt let go another smear aimed at the Rpublican party. He said that practically every serious scandal since the Civil War has occurred under a Republican administration. Far-sighted as Mr. Roosevelt was in looking back to the Civil War, he indeed is myopic in that he cannot discern the scandals which have taken place in Washington in the last seven years."

War Correspondent Is Reported Killed In Namses Bombing

(International News Service)

STOCKHOLM, April 26.—Unconfirmed reports that Peter Fleming, British journalist and author, had been killed in the bombing of the Grand hotel in Namsos on Sunday were published today by Stockholm papers.

No confirmation was available at either the British or Norwegian legations here.

Fleming was sent to Scandinavia as a war correspondent of the London Times some weeks ago.

Son of a British army officer, he was educated at Oxford, studied economics and finance first-hand in Wall street and returned to England to serve as an under-secretary of the economic advisory council.

He then served four years in the Grenadier Guards before going to Russia and the far east as a special corresponde.t for the London Times, visiting practically every country in the far east, including Tibet.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Good evening folks . . . remember a few nights ago we mentioned that an open cellar was full of water . . . the address was the Corner of Delaware and Edgewood. We mentioned that if something was not done with this condition that a child was liable to fall in . . . well folks it happened. Part of the bank fell in and the child went in with it . . . fortunately she was large enough to scramble out. How about a little action on this situation, those who have power over such conditions. Must we wait until real damage is done before action is taken.

The "little queen" has been enjoying life since she came to stay with us. She eats, sleeps and then eats again . . . but the past week or so she has been doing less sleeping and in her waking hours the smiles come more often. She sort of makes funny little sounds like she would like to say something . . . wonder just what is going on inside that little head. Wonder what she and all the rest of the little babies think of their family and the world that surrounds them? Well, time will slip by and before long real words with meaning will be spoken and that will surely thrill all concerned. Right now we can hardly wait until she starts sitting up.

So you say the ground isn't full of water . . . Mister you are wrong. A farmer out in Plaingrove township was driving his tractor along a lane on his farm when all at once the tractor started to go down . . . down, down it went and it took all the surrounding farmers to get the tractor out. A hole was left large enough to bury your car . . . and the mud was just like chewing gum. Folks things are really wet down underneath.

Union Athletes Honored At Fete

CLOSE TO 200 IN ATTENDANCE

Union Township High's football-basketball players were honored guests at the third testimonial banquet in the school gymnasium, on Thursday evening.

The occasion, sponsored by the Union Township P.T.A., set a new high for banquets. Close to 200 persons gathered to honor the athletes.

Hess Main Speaker

C. W. Herman Hess, who is active in fraternal circles, was the main speaker. He delivered an inspiring talk. In an interesting manner, Mr. Hess presented a parallel between athletics and life. Athletics teach important lessons useful in later life and stress the importance of cooperation, Hess pointed out.

Jay G. Rudolph, supervising principal of Union schools, expressed his appreciation for the cooperation received by coaches, participants and others active in Union athletics.

Musical selections were presented by:

Joe Pietrowicz, Carrie, Leona and Wilma Heckart, Noreen Buchanan and Wilda Montgomery and Walter Severa. Leroy Rowley led group singing.

Awards Presented

Jackets were awarded to the following young men:

Don Summerson, Joe Smith, Stanley Sniezek, Stanley Plonka, Walter Severa, Clyde McGarry, Leon Tabisz, Mike Covelli, Wendell Morris, Joe Chiafullo, Henry Mateja, Louis Montabon and Norm O'Laughlin.

Junior football letter winners:

Paul Allen, Louis Vinton, Vernon Ringbloom. Sophomores: Wayne Carpenter, George Dudo, John Taylor, Frank Sniezek, Steve Dudinsky and Francis Mescall.

Junior varsity basketball letter winners:

Ted Boron, Steve Dudinsky, Russ Dewberry, Ed Reynolds and Joe Cwynar.

Girls receiving letters:

Relay Carnival Starting Today In Philadelphia

NEW HAMER THROW IS POSSIBILITY

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The Penn relay carnival which for 46 years has been the incubator, the inspiration and the backbone of track athletics in this country, will be held here today and tomorrow.

If you have never seen one of these relay carnivals it's hard to make you realize what it's like, but if you can imagine some 3,000 athletes, from more than 500 prep and high schools, colleges and universities, competing in one stadium, you can form a fair mental picture of it.

Many a world champion and record smasher ran his first race in these carnivals and world champions and record holders are competing in this one.

Records, if any, will depend largely on track and weather conditions, but if the weather man behaves himself Chuck Fenske, the mile king, and Al Blozis, Georgetown's phenomenal shot putter and discus thrower, may set new figures—if not world marks, then surely new carnival marks.

May Set Hammer Mark

And Matt Flaherty, a virtually unknown sophomore from New Hampshire university, probably will set a new American record for the hammer throw.

However, these and other specialists are only the frosting on the cake. The main thing is the cake itself—the relays.

Starting at 2 o'clock this afternoon and continuing all day long tomorrow, these events will be run off with clock-like regularity.

Sometimes they have 50 starters in one event with the boys lined up across the full width of the quarter mile track in double and, yes, even triple rows.

And it's something to see with the boys jostling and running and occasionally dropping all over the track.

Twenty-eight of the 76 events on the program are down for decision today. This doesn't mean, however, that there will be only 28 races, far from it, for some of these events will consist of a dozen heats, each one a stirring event in itself.

Sports World Ramblings

Local niblets: Slippery Rock College's varsity track squad includes the names of four local athletes. Tom Carey, the ex-Hurricane football-basketball player, is tossing the discus; George Loudon heaves the javelin and shut put; G. Stitzinger jumps the hurdles while Leo Lenheer is also a discuss pegger. Lenheer's name isn't familiar to the local sports gentry. . . .

"Like father like son", an old axiom, applies to the Jerry family. Frank Jerry, the noted marathoner, covered a lot of earth in various foot derbies. Don, a son, is holding up his daddy's end. In the recent New Castle High cinder burning carnival, Don busted the tape first in the mile run, scooting around in 5 minutes and 10 seconds. Don, incidentally, is also a footballer. . . .

A track fan brings to light the name of Earl Hammond, ex-Washington High product. The writer says: "The little red headed sophomore burned up the cinders, taking four first places in the inter-class high meet. He copped medals by winning the high jump, low hurdles, 100 yard dash and the 220-yard dash. He was one of the fastest backfield men at Washington. I am always glad to watch a promising athlete."

Diamond scribblings—Baseball is a strange sport these cold, rainy days. Last year, the Athletics thumped the Yanks four times. In the first week, the Mackmen spilled the Yorkers twice. . . . Kirby Higbe, now with the Phils, and Hugh Casey, of Brooklyn, were let loose by the Cubs, not too long ago. Today, the two are easily worth $100,000. . . .

Vallie Eaves, White Sox flinger, is an Indian. . . . Managers use various formulas in the hope of helping the stick work of one of their proteges. Casey Stengel, observing that Maxie West was too tense at the platter, suggested that West whistle a tune while at bat. Today, West is one of the longest distance swatters in the National. In '39, he homered at least once in every N. L. orchard. . . .

During spring training sessions, Joe McCarthy did not permit one of his Yankee pitchers to go the full route. . . . "Chubby" Dean will be 24 years old in August. . . . At least 50 players, who saw action in the minor leagues in 1939, are listed on rosters of American League teams. . . . The Boston Red Sox spilled the Yanks 11 times in 19 games in 1939. . . . Cleveland and the Red Sox wound up the '39 season even stephen, ten wins and ten losses apiece. . . .

Tribute Is Paid Titan Athletes

Upwards Of 150 Attend All-Sports Banquet At Westminster Thursday Night

ROBERT THORNE IS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, April 26—Westminster College paid tribute last night to its fine athletes at an All-Sports banquet held at the Hillside dormitory dining room. Upwards of 150 gathered around the festive boards. The menu consisted of steaming plates of chicken and all the trimmings. Robert Thorne director of athletics of Grove City, spoke on "Value of College Athletics."

The banquet began at 7 o'clock. Grover Washabaugh head coach of football and basketball at Westminster was the toastmaster and did a swell job. His clever introduction of the speakers was thoroughly enjoyed.

Enjoy Thorne's Talk

Thorne in his talk stressed the point that college athletics help to develop courage and poise, that college sports are stimulating and help to relax the students. All types of athletics help the students to enjoy the richness and fullness of life not only in college but in the outside world.

The talk by Thorne was enjoyed. Grove City and Westminster have long been sport rivals, he touched very briefly on this fact. He congratulated Westminster for having such fine young athletes.

Coaches Do Talking

Following Thorpe's talk Toastmaster Washabaugh called on the following coaches for short talks: Walter Biberich, of the tennis team. Joe Ferris of the cross-country team, Dave M. Boyd, and Mel Hetzler of the football team and George Anderson, equipment manager at the college for the past 13 years.

Others called on were—Dean M. R. Kelso, Professor Gilbert Taylor, and Ross Ellis, business manager of the college.

Athletes Get Awards

As listed in the Wednesday issue of The News the athletes were given letters and various awards as the concluding feature of the banquet Retiring captain Mel Miller gave out the basketball awards.

The banquet was numbered among the finest that has ever been held at Westminster and will live long in the minds of those present. The following sports were represented—footfall, basketball, swimming, tennis, cross-country and golf.

Sylvan Heights Course To Open

Municipal Course Will Be Ready For Golfers Saturday, Manager Hart Says

Belated opening of the Sylvan Heights golf course, the city's own course on the Ellwood City road, is scheduled to take place tomorrow, Manager Walter S. Hart, announced today.

Opening of the course generally takes place around mid-April but was delayed this year due to bad weather conditions.

Players will find many improvements have been made at the course including the removal of the septic tanks on Hole 15, which took a heavy toll in balls from the golfers. The course is in wonderful condition, Manager Hart states, the turf being exceptionally fine because of the heavy spring rains.

Dean Muzzles Hustling Reds, Pirates Upset

CARDINALS HAND DEFEAT TO PIRATES

By ED KIELY
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 26.—Just when they are about to put Dizzy Dean, with his ailing arm, in baseball's bone yard, old vitamin I himself does something besides talking, to earn his $10,000 yearly salary.

Today the talkative Chicago Cub pitcher was back in the good graces of Manager Gabby Hartnett, because of the "great one's" masterful work on the mound against the Cincinnati Reds.

Minus his high, hard one, Diz used his noodle more than his arm to send the Reds down to their first defeat with a five-hit, 4 to 2 victory. The Cubs collected 11 hits to help Dean win, and thereby handed Cincinnati's ace, big Paul Derringer, his first defeat.

Meanwhile the Brooklyn Dodgers ran their winning streak to five straight by taking the measure of the lowly Philadelphia Phillies, 3 to 1. Hugh Casey, with his five-hit twirling, and Dolf Camilli, with his homer, were big factors in helping the Flatbushers move into undisputed possession of first place in the National league.

Bill Terry's New York Giants finally came to life with an 11-hit game to wallop the Bees, 9-1. Bill Lohrman struck out nine Bostonian batsmen and Burgess Whitehead pitched in with a three-run homer.

Cards Nose Pirates

In Pittsburgh, St. Louis needed 22 hits to edge out the Pirates, 10 to 9. Manager Frankie Frisch's rejuvenated Buccaneers fell short with a ninth inning rally, the tying run being nipped at the plate on a close play.

In the American league, Bobby Feller scored his second victory as Cleveland downed the Chicago White Sox, 3-1. Edgar Smith, who opposed the speed king when he pitched his opening day no-hitter, was the victim again yesterday, although he allowed only seven safeties to Feller's eight. Rollie Hemsley and Jeff Heath contributed home runs to Cleveland's cause.

Elsewhere, Detroit submerged the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 2. Buck Newsom spun off a five-hitter and Pinky Higgins won the game with a homer with a mate on in the eighth. In Washington, the Senators put on a garrison finish, pushing across six runs after two were out in the ninth, to whip the Athletics, 7 to 6. Rain kept New York and Boston idle.

Stocks Irregularly Lower At Opening—Steels Draw Attention

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, April 26.—The stock market was irregularly lower today. Opening weakness in steels and motors was modified in the later trading.

The recovery from the extreme lows of the leaders came with very quiet trading. The list generally was only fractions away from the preceding close, with losses predominating.

The break in steels came in face of the best first quarter Bethlehem Steel report in the company's history and the increase in the dividend, to $1.25 a share.

Bimelech Wins Keeneland Race

Wins Handily At Kentucky Track Thursday, Now Ready For Derby Classic

LOOKS PART OF GREAT CHAMPION

By CLYDE L. REECE
International News Service Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26—If there's a horse in the nation today who expects to stay in the Kentucky Derby game with Bimelech he will have to play lively, because Bimelech appears to hold winning cards.

The big colt made his bid for the $75,000 added Derby pot at Keeneland race track (Lexington) yesterday, and is now ready to show his hand at Churchill Downs in the Derby a week Saturday.

He has no ace in the hole, but it will take a strong hand to beat him. Running with all the ease of a champion, the glamorous colt from the stables of Col. E. R. Bradley literally coasted to victoryy over Joseph E. Widener's Roman and Bradley's Bashful Duck in the $5,000 added bluegrass stakes at Keeneland.

Soon Takes Lead

Bimelech broke from the tied-back door of the electric starting gate behind Roman, but in a few short strides was in the lead, and was never headed. He won $5,575, soaring his earnings with those of last year to a grand total of $140,665.

And paid his backers $2.20 for every $2 wagered. He thrilled more than 12,000 fans who cheered him to victory in the three-horse race.

He did everything a champion is supposed to do. But the main point is that he lived up to his place as the Winterbrook favorite, gained by winning six races in as many starts as a 2 year old last year, and will go to the Derby May 4 the ranking favorite at odds pounded to the cellar from the latest reading of 8 to 5.

Galento-Baer To Meet Despite Death Of Jacobs

Plan To Stage Scheduled Heavyweight Bout On May 28, Galento Favored

MAY BE LAST BOUT FOR "TWO-TON" TONY

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 26.—Aided by Joe Jacobs' keen mind and brazen manipulations, Tony Galento achieved more pugilistic success than he had any right to expect, and it seems inevitable, now that Jacobs is dead, that the blubberish Jersey heavyweight must falter and be engulfed by a long over-due oblivion. He had been beaten in more than a score of fights, was a ton or two over-weight and was favored with scarcely more than grudging toleration when Jacobs started him on a knockout spree that led finally to a fight with Joe Louis last summer for the heavyweight championship.

Behind him all the time, through nearly every moment of this almost unbelievable ascendancy, cajoling him, bally-hooing him and thinking up his best gags, was the little man with the big cigar who will be buried Sunday.

Galento Favored

Galento's future must be interred at the same time.

Promoter Mike Jacobs said today that Galento and Max Baer will meet as scheduled on May 28. Galento may go ahead and win this one from the former title-holder, who has been well-laundered for at least three or four years. But what then? The answer seems to be that Galento shortly thereafter will pass from the pugilistic scene, if his past—prior to the Jacobs regime—can be accepted as prophetic.

Makes Complaint About Storm Water

Attorney J. Elder Bryan, counsel for Paul Marrangoni, Addis street and Jackson avenue Thursday, complained that as a result of the big storm sewer built on the east side, water which had been gathered into the sewer now was flowing over Marrangoni's property.

He said that previously there had been a natural water course through the property but the volume was not so large because water had drained away in the ground before reaching the property.

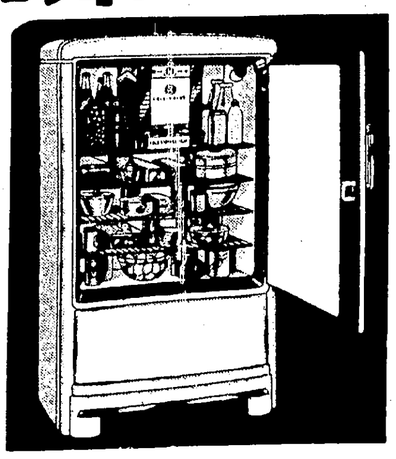

Council will view the property, they decided in meeting in city hall Thursday.

Chemical Industry Provides Real Hope For U. S. Says Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1940, Publishers Financial Bureau)

HARTFORD, Conn., April 26.—Uncertainty is the dictator of the business and security worlds today. It rules with as iron a hand as Goering and Goebbels. General wages are good, production volume is satisfactory, earnings and dividends are excellent. Yet, business enthusiasm and security trading are at relatively the lowest ebb in history. The weary comeback to every suggestion for progressive action is: "No one knows what's going to happen!" It's the pat, convenient, universal 1940 alibi for doing nothing!

BABSON

Several men in my organization are just back from trips during which they pretty well covered the country. They report that, "I'm sitting tight" is the business man's most popular refrain. Their only shading of this was by adding that less pessimism is noticeable in Texas and Nevada than in other states. Texas is booming. The depression, recession and decession never hit her as hard as the rest of the U. S. Nevada is America's "Tax Sanctuary". She has no state income tax (either personal or corporate), no sales tax, no gift tax, no inheritance tax. Thousands of wealthy people are flocking into this tax oasis every year.

Babsonchart Vs. Reserve Board Index

My colleagues report that business everywhere is better than a year ago. There has been a drop since New Years but not so big a slump as many people have been led to believe. As measured by the Federal Reserve Board Index—which I believe has been somewhat misleading—the drop equals 20 per cent. The Reserve Index is composed of figures covering 43 lines of industrial activity. Such up or down businesses as steel and textiles are given undue importance. My Babsonchart, however, is made up of figurges representing 54 lines of activity and gives a much broader picture of American business as a whole. It is interesting to note, therefore, that the Babsonchart is down only 12 per cent from January 1.

Yet, despite good business, good wages, good dividends, people are all at sea. The war and the election have them worried sick. Too many key people are needlessly bewildered—they are like a ship without a compass or rudder. But I will make a prediction which may be of help: War or peace, New Dealer or Conservative, business and the markets will be higher the day after election than they are now. How do I figure that? Because it is only uncertainty which is holding things back now. Last summer the uncertainty of war or peace threw a wet blanket over business. The moment war was declared, people thought the situation was clear ahead. Consequently, business and the markets soared.

Answer By November 6

So today things are being held back by uncertainty. By November 6—perhaps before then—we will know who the president for 1941-45 will be. Most people believe a Democrat would be bad for business: but many also believe a Republican would be bad for business. Considering that the Democrats are the consumers and the Republicans are the producers, whichever party wins, I look for higher market prices. Moreover, by November 6, I think we will know pretty well whether World War II is to be an old-fashioned blood and thunder affair or just a battleless war of words and statistics. War means today just what it did 25 years ago—more business for America. Also, peace means a boom psychologically. It is a case of "Tails I win, heads you lose".

Naturally, it is hard for people to believe that better business and higher prices lie ahead. They feel that every time they have tried to make plans in the last few years something unexpected has come along and upset the apple cart. So they have taken a box seat on the sidelines. They are keeping their money in the bank or they are investing in low-coupon bonds. They are not expanding. Yet, if there is any sound basis for their fears, they are taking just as much chance keeping their money in cash and low-yield, long-term bonds as by investing in stocks or a new business!

Chemicals May Double

Many readers may wonder what magical industry I think is as bombproof as cash or government bonds or saving deposits. My answer is the chemicals. War or peace, New Deal or Old Deal, depression or prosperity, inflation or deflation, the chemical industry should come out on top. This is a chemical age. We have hardly scratched the surface. Chemical autos, trains, airplanes, clothing, furniture, houses, will be as commonplace in 50 years as rayon stockings and bakelite telephone sets are today. Upheavals in industry, more startling than those we have just witnessed in transportation, lie ahead in the next quarter century.

The chemical companies will be in the driver's seat. Wise are the young men who now get into the industry. And yet I name this only as an illustration. There are other "coming" industries. Those who are sincerely worried about the future of America should buy into, or work with, the chemical business. Most such companies yield as good a return as bank deposits, so-called top-notch bonds and annuities. And I had rather gamble with the scientists than with either Wall Street or the New Dealers. My guess is that a group of the leading chemical stocks will double in value in the next decade!

Look Ahead

Yes, forget the bankers, but bank on the scientists. Forget the politicians, but tie to the technicians. Forget the laborites, but watch the laboratories. Forget the pessimists, but follow the chemists. Look upward, not downward; forward, not backward!

Council Adopts Salary Measure

During council meeting in city hall Thursday colleagues adopted an ordinance submitted some time ago by Mayor Charles B. Mayne which designates the salaries to be paid the city solicitor and his assistant beginning May 1 for four years.

The solicitors salary the first year will be $2,400 and the assistant will be paid $900. The fourth year of their terms will find the solicitor being paid $3,000, a year and the assistant $1,200, per annum.

A city hall report states that former Solicitor Robert McKinney White will succeed Solicitor William Cabau. The appointment probably will be made effective May 1.

City Will Plant Some 50,000 Trees

Within the near future the city of New Castle will embark upon a planting spree, 50,000 seedlings having been bought from the state of Pennsylvania for $100.

The seedlings of various species are now at the state nursery at Clearfield and will be brought here by city trucks.

The seedlings will be planted owing to the advocacy of President Judge W. Walter Braham who said that the benefits of the planting now would be seen in 15 or 20 years.

The seedlings will be planted on vacant city property.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Good evening folks . . . remember a few nights ago we mentioned that an open cellar was full of water . . . the address was the Corner of Delaware and Edgewood. We mentioned that if something was not done with this condition that a child was liable to fall in . . . well folks it happened. Part of the bank fell in and the child went in with it . . . fortunately she was large enough to scramble out. How about a little action on this situation, those who have power over such conditions. Must we wait until real damage is done before action is taken.

Now here is another lead on a fine little dog . . . you can have same by calling at the home listed below.
211 Euclid Avenue . . . Fox terrier pup, female, six months old and house broke.

The "little queen" has been enjoying life since she came to stay with us. She eats, sleeps and then eats again . . . but the past week or so she has been doing less sleeping and in her waking hours the smiles come more often. She sort of makes funny little sounds like she would like to say something . . . wonder just what is going on inside that little head. Wonder what she and all the rest of the little babies think of their family and the world that surrounds them? Well, time will slip by and before long real words with meaning will be spoken and that will surely thrill all concerned. Right now we can hardly wait until she starts sitting up.

So you say the ground isn't full of water . . . Mister you are wrong. A farmer out in Plaingrove township was driving his tractor along a lane on his farm when all at once the tractor started to go down . . . down, down it went and it took all the surrounding farmers to get the tractor out. A hole was left large enough to bury your car . . . and the mud was just like chewing gum. Folks things are really wet down underneath.

Stocks Irregularly Lower At Opening—Steels Draw Attention

(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, April 26.—The stock market was irregularly lower today. Opening weakness in steels and motors was modified in the later trading.

The recovery from the extreme lows of the leaders came with very quiet trading. The list generally was only fractions away from the preceding close, with losses predominating.

The break in steels came in face of the best first quarter Bethlehem Steel report in the company's history and the increase in the dividend to $1.25 a share.

Bimelech Wins Keeneland Race

LOOKS PART OF GREAT CHAMPION

By CLYDE L. REECE
International News Service Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26—If there's a horse in the nation today who expects to stay in the Kentucky Derby game with Bimelech he will have to play lively, because Bimelech appears to hold winning cards.

The big colt made his bid for the $75,000 added Derby pot at Keeneland race track (Lexington) yesterday, and is now ready to show his hand at Churchill Downs in the Derby a week Saturday.

He has no ace in the hole, but it will take a strong hand to beat him. Running with all the ease of a champion, the glamorous colt from the stables of Col. E. R. Bradley literally coasted to victoryy over Joseph E. Widener's Roman and Bradley's Bashful Duck in the $5,000 added bluegrass stakes at Keeneland.

Soon Takes Lead

Bimelech broke from the tied-back door of the electric starting gate behind Roman, but in a few short strides was in the lead, and was never headed. He won $5,575, soaring his earnings with those of last year to a grand total of $140,665.

And paid his backers $2.20 for every $2 wagered. He thrilled more than 12,000 fans who cheered him to victory in the three-horse race.

He did everything a champion is supposed to do. But the main point is that he lived up to his place as the Winterbrook favorite, gained by winning six races in as many starts as a 2 year old last year, and will go to the Derby May 4 the ranking favorite at odds pounded to the cellar from the latest reading of 8 to 5.

Galento-Baer To Meet Despite Death Of Jacobs

Plan To Stage Scheduled Heavyweight Bout On May 28, Galento Favored

MAY BE LAST BOUT FOR "TWO-TON" TONY

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 26.—Aided by Joe Jacobs' keen mind and brazen manipulations, Tony Galento achieved more pugilistic success than he had any right to expect, and it seems inevitable, now that Jacobs is dead, that the blubberish Jersey heavyweight must falter and be engulfed by a long over-due oblivion. He had been beaten in more than a score of fights, was a ton or two over-weight and was favored with scarcely more than grudging toleration when Jacobs started him on a knockout spree that led finally to a fight with Joe Louis last summer for the heavyweight championship.

Behind him all the time, through nearly every moment of this almost unbelievable ascendancy, cajoling him, bally-hooing him and thinking up his best gags, was the little man with the big cigar who will be buried Sunday.

Galento Favored

Galento's future must be interred at the same time.

Promoter Mike Jacobs said today that Galento and Max Baer will meet as scheduled on May 28. Galento may go ahead and win this one from the former title-holder, who has been well-laundered for at least three or four years. But what then? The answer seems to be that Galento shortly thereafter will pass from the pugilistic scene, if his past—prior to the Jacobs regime—can be accepted as prophetic.

Chemical Industry Provides Real Hope For U. S. Says Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1940, Publishers Financial Bureau)

HARTFORD, Conn., April 26.—Uncertainty is the dictator of the business and security worlds today. It rules with as iron a hand as Goering and Goebbels. General wages are good, production volume is satisfactory, earnings and dividends are excellent. Yet, business enthusiasm and security trading are at relatively the lowest ebb in history. The weary comeback to every suggestion for progressive action is: "No one knows what's going to happen!" It's the pat, convenient, universal 1940 alibi for doing nothing!

BABSON

Several men in my organization are just back from trips during which they pretty well covered the country. They report that, "I'm sitting tight" is the business man's most popular refrain. Their only shading of this was by adding that less pessimism is noticeable in Texas and Nevada than in other states. Texas is booming. The depression, recession and decession never hit her as hard as the rest of the U. S. Nevada is America's "Tax Sanctuary". She has no state income tax (either personal or corporate), no sales tax, no gift tax, no inheritance tax. Thousands of wealthy people are flocking into this tax oasis every year.

Babsonchart Vs. Reserve Board Index

My colleagues report that business everywhere is better than a year ago. There has been a drop since New Years but not so big a slump as many people have been led to believe. As measured by the Federal Reserve Board Index—which I believe has been somewhat misleading—the drop equals 20 per cent. The Reserve Index is composed of figures covering 43 lines of industrial activity. Such up or down businesses as steel and textiles are given undue importance. My Babsonchart, however, is made up of figures representing 54 lines of activity and gives a much broader picture of American business as a whole. It is interesting to note, therefore, that the Babsonchart is down only 12 per cent from January 1.

Yet, despite good business, good wages, good dividends, people are all at sea. The war and the election have them worried sick. Too many key people are needlessly bewildered—they are like a ship without a compass or rudder. But I will make a prediction which may be of help: War or peace, New Dealer or Conservative, business and the markets will be higher the day after election than they are now. How do I figure that? Because it is only uncertainty which is holding things back now. Last summer the uncertainty of war or peace threw a wet blanket over business. The moment war was declared, people thought the situation was clear ahead. Consequently, business and the markets soared.

Answer By November 6

So today things are being held back by uncertainty. By November 6—perhaps before then—we will know who the president for 1941-45 will be. Most people believe a Democrat would be bad for business; but many also believe a Republican would be bad for business. Considering that the Democrats are the consumers and the Republicans are the producers, whichever party wins, I look for higher market prices. Moreover, by November 6, I think we will know pretty well whether World War II is to be an old-fashioned blood and thunder affair or just a battleless war of words and statistics. War means today just what it did 25 years ago—more business for America. Also, peace means a boom psychologically. It is a case of "Tails I win, heads you lose".

Naturally, it is hard for people to believe that better business and higher prices lie ahead. They feel that every time they have tried to make plans in the last few years something unexpected has come along and upset the apple cart. So they have taken a box seat on the sidelines. They are keeping their money in the bank or they are investing in low-coupon bonds. They are not expanding. Yet, if there is any sound basis for their fears, they are taking just as much chance keeping their money in cash and low-yield, long-term bonds as by investing in stocks or a new business!

Chemicals May Double

Many readers may wonder what magical industry I think is as bomb-proof as cash or government bonds or saving deposits. My answer is the chemicals. War or peace, New Deal or Old Deal, depression or prosperity, inflation or deflation, the chemical industry should come out on top. This is a chemical age. We have hardly scratched the surface. Chemical autos, trains, airplanes, clothing, furniture, houses, will be as commonplace in 50 years as rayon stockings and bakelite telephone sets are today. Upheavals in industry, more startling than those we have just witnessed in transportation, lie ahead in the next quarter century.

The chemical companies will be in the driver's seat. Wise are the young men who now get into the industry. And yet I name this only as an illustration. There are other "coming" industries. Those who are sincerely worried about the future of America should buy into, or work with, the chemical business. Most such companies yield as good a return as bank deposits, so-called top-notch bonds and annuities. And I had rather gamble with the scientists than with either Wall Street or the New Dealers. My guess is that a group of the leading chemical stocks will double in value in the next decade!

Look Ahead

Yes, forget the bankers, but bank on the scientists. Forget the politicians, but tie to the technicians. Forget the laborites, but watch the laboratories. Forget the pessimists, but follow the chemists. Look upward, not downward; forward, not backward!

Council Adopts Salary Measure

During council meeting in city hall Thursday colleagues adopted an ordinance submitted some time ago by Mayor Charles B. Mayne which designates the salaries to be paid the city solicitor and his assistant beginning May 1 for four years.

The solicitors salary the first year will be $2,400 and the assistant will be paid $900. The fourth year of their terms will find the solicitor being paid $3,000, a year and the assistant $1,200, per annum.

A city hall report states that former Solicitor Robert McKinney White will succeed Solicitor William Cabau. The appointment probably will be made effective May 1.

Within the near future the city of New Castle will embark upon a planting spree, 50,000 seedlings having been bought from the state of Pennsylvania for $100.

The seedlings of various species are now at the state nursery at Clearfield and will be brought here by city trucks.

The seedlings will be planted owing to the advocacy of President Judge W. Walter Braham who said that the benefits of the planting now would be seen in 15 or 20 years.

The seedlings will be planted on vacant city property.
